Lloyd George Attacks Prime Minister Over Failure Norse Venture

LABOR PEER RAPS CABINET WAR CONDUCT

Lord Strabolgi Sees Defects In Personnel And Methods

LONDON, May 8.—Lord Strabolgi told the House of Lords today that he had informed Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, that the Labor party did not intend "to wash dirty linen in public unless there were bloodstains on it."

The Labor peer declared that the "mishandling" of the Norwegian campaign indicated there were defects in "both personnel and methods of government" in the conduct of the war.

The first lesson learned was the need for long distance fighter aircraft, he said, adding that there was "no naval obstacle whatever" preventing the navy from entering Trondheim fjord and that "it was two days" before the 1,500 Germans who took Oslo, the capital, were reinforced from the sea.

Lord Strabolgi called for a select committee of inquiry to study the Norwegian campaign.

WAY FOR OTHERS

If the government is not capable of drawing up plans and reversing "this setback," he declared, "it is their duty to make way for others."

Prime Minister Chamberlain's "complacency," he said, is the "besetting sin of our nation."

Lord Strabolgi, before his succession to the peerage was Lieut.-Commander J. M. Kenworthy, member of the admiralty staff during the first Great War.

Lord Hankey, minister without portfolio in the war cabinet, criticized the attack on the government by Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes. "Governments must depend for advice on military matters upon their responsible naval, military and air advisers and not on irresponsible officers on the retired list, however distinguished their services may be," he said.

Lord Hankey said that "one of our greatest losses" in the campaign was on April 20 when "a ship in convoy loaded with anti-aircraft guns and other valuable stores was torpedoed and sunk."

The Marquess of Salisbury, Conservative, said that Winston Churchill should have jurisdiction over supplies, of which he said "the most sinister rumors have reached me." In that case Mr. Churchill should not remain first lord of the admiralty due to the pressure of his many duties, he added.

Lord Snell, Labor leader, said his party wished to re-assert in the strongest way the essential unity of the nation concerning the principles for which the country is at war.

Fully-Equipped Polish Force Is Landed At Narvik

By RALPH HEINZEN
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, May 8.—A Polish expeditionary force has arrived at Narvik, in Arctic Norway. A military informant said that the Polish force consists of men who escaped from Poland and have been trained and armed in France.

The Polish force is that which had been assembled and equipped for service in the Russo-Finnish war at the time the Allies wanted to send men to aid Finland.

Fiery Little World War Premier In Vigorous Attack Says "Nothing Would Contribute More To Victory"

By WALLACE CARROLL
British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, May 8.—David Lloyd George, fiery little world war premier, told a cheering House of Commons today that "nothing would contribute more to victory" in the war against Germany than the resignation of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Leading a climactic attack on conduct of the war in Norway prior to a life-or-death vote on the Chamberlain cabinet tonight, Lloyd George clashed with the Prime Minister and said:

"There is nothing that could contribute more to victory in this war than that the prime minister should sacrifice the seals of office."

The opposition benches cheered loudly.

Germany In Better Strategic Position

The white-haired little Welsh statesman vigorously attacked the British failure in the war in Norway and warned that Adolf Hitler had Germany in a better strategic position than ever was achieved by Kaiser Wilhelm.

"He has put us in greater jeopardy," Lloyd George said.

The German success in Norway, he said, has brought German bombing planes and submarines 200 miles closer to British ports.

The Welsh statesman charged that as a result of the failure in Norway, the influence and prestige of the Allies had been affected in other parts of Europe.

"British promissory notes are now rubbish on the market," he asserted amid cries of "shame" from the government benches.

Debate Brought Near Climax

Lloyd George brought the debate near its climax after:

1—Chamberlain had accepted a Laborite challenge for a confidence test vote at the end of debate tonight—with the life of his cabinet at stake—and again warned that united action was needed "to face a relentless enemy" who might strike anywhere.

2—Cabinet members had revealed that perhaps the greatest loss to Britain during the Norwegian compaign was the U-boat sinking of a supply ship carrying urgently needed anti-aircraft guns and that a British fighting base established in Norway was bombed to pieces by 80 planes in a 15-hour raid.

3—A Laborite, Hugh Dalton, had suggested bitterly that the government was pursuing such a feeble policy in the war that the Allied forces might soon give up their last foothold in Norway in the Narvik region.

4—Another Laborite, Herbert Morrison, had pressed for the resignations of Chamberlain, Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Sir Samuel Hoare, air minister, on the grounds that otherwise Great Britain was in danger of losing the war.

Lloyd George's speech was awaited with greater excitement than any statement save that of Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, who is expected to close debate.

The force sent to Norway, Lloyd George said, made British prestige depend "on a half-baked, half-prepared expeditionary force."

Parliamentary veterans described Lloyd George's speech as the most devastating he had delivered in the last 15 years.

The ruddy-faced former premier spoke with fierce intensity and made sweeping gestures.

"For three or four years everything that has been done has been half-hearted and ineffective without drive or intelligence," he said.

"The prime minister met this formidable foe (Hitler) in peace and in war.

"He has always been worsted."

The Commons roared with laughter when Lloyd George warned that he would not let his old friend, Churchill, become "an air raid shelter for the rest of the government' members.

The facts given by Sir Samuel Hoare, air minister, regarding Nor-

War Fears Of Balkans Grow As German Army Asks Hungary Passage

BUDAPEST, May 8.—Great Britain was reported in diplomatic quarters tonight to have asked the Hungarian government to state its attitude toward any German move to send troops through Hungary.

Following the published reports that Germany had requested such permission, these sources said the British minister, Owen O'Malley, asked Premier Paul Teleki to declare his country's stand.

Count Teleki refused a definite answer, according to these informants, saying Hungary's attitude would depend on circumstances when and if Germany was ready to move.

Mr. O'Malley was reported to have offered the support of British forces if Hungary chose to resist any German attempt to march through.

The report of a German request on Hungary for free passage of her legions into the southeast—presumably an action to be taken when strategy dictates—was carried by the official Hungarian news agency with a note saying that thus far the report could not be verified.

It was circulated on the heels of word in Balkan diplomatic circles of redoubled British efforts to line up Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece and Turkey for a united stand against any "aggression."

"In case the Allied troops violated

EMPIRE READY FOR HARD WAR EDEN STATES

Dominions Secretary Praises Canada's Effort In Conflict

LONDON, May 8.—Dominions Secretary Anthony Eden told a luncheon gathering today that the war is entering upon what all can recognize as an active phase and the peoples of the British Commonwealth are now braced and prepared for the stress of a harsh conflict, which may be long."

If victory is to be assured, he told the National Defence Public Interest Committee, "we must not underrate the enemy's strength. We have to marshal the whole of our resources and employ them, and we have to conduct the war with all the vision, courage and resolution at our command."

Mr. Eden said that 70 flying training schools are being set up in Canada and when plans are fully developed the annual output of pilots, observers and gun crews will be numbered in tens of thousands.

Mr. Eden paid tribute to "my friend," Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner, also a guest of honor, as "the representative of the great dominion whose contributions to the Empire effort have moved us all."

The dominions secretary said that "despite the present anxiety, not one of us doubts that final victory can be won, but if victory is to be assured, first we must not underrate the enemy's strength."

NO MORE MISTAKES

He added amid murmurs of assent that "there must be no more fatal mistakes in that respect."

Great Britain is "fighting in this war against the Prussian spirit of domination and for the right to be free men," he said.

Eden reminded his audience that Hitler did not invent the doctrine that might is right.

"He has merely taken it to its logical conclusion," he added. "Hitler had his political roots in the Prussia of past generations."

GATHER NEW FORCE

"I hope," said Eden, "that we shall not hear anything more about phoney war."

The Empire's war effort is "like the opening bars of a symphony whose theme has been announced but not elaborated. With every day this effort will gather new force," he concluded.

JOHN BURNS TO TAKE CHARGE OF BOND SALE

John Burns, of Calgary, has been selected as chairman of the Alberta committee in charge of the Dominion government baby bond sale commitee, it was learned here Wednesday.

Official announcement has been delayed by Ottawa but it is understood that Mr. Burns has been appointed and will commence his organization work immediately.

Swedish Steamer With German Prize Crew Is Torpedoed

STOCKHOLM, May 8.—The Swedish steamship Monark, 1,786 tons, with a German prize crew aboard, was torpedoed by a British submarine yesterday, it was learned today.

The Monark was on its way from Stavanger, Norway, to a German harbor with a load of wood pulp.

Five members of the prize crew were taken aboard the submarine and two others were saved in lifeboats with Swedish crewmen.

The Monark was at Bergen, Norway, when that port was suddenly seized by the Germans at the start of the invasion.

Netherlands Prepares As German Invasion Of Low Country Feared

All Military Leaves Cancelled, Transport Services Restricted, Soldiers And Police Mobilized Despite Assurances

By H. C. BURMAN
British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

AMSTERDAM, May 8.—The Dutch government maintained precautions against invasions from any quarter today, despite new assurances from European belligerents that the Netherlands is in no immediate danger.

A check of the provinces shows all is quiet and both Berlin and Paris spokesmen took the position that there seemed to be no threat at present to the Low Countries.

The country is still tense and somewhat nervous, however, as a result of sudden military precautions.

(There had been reports outside Holland that German troops were marching toward the Dutch frontier. It has been supposed for months that Germany has maintained about a million men on the frontier.)

CANALS CLOSED

Leaves of all men of the Dutch fighting forces have been cancelled. Members of anti-aircraft units and searchlight batteries — who had been released to work in war production factories—have been recalled to military duty. Key rivers and canals have been closed to foreign traffic and ships in them immobilized.

Train and boat services have been restricted because of troop movements.

Telephone calls to and from foreign countries have been sharply curtailed and some calls during the night were cut off.

Dawn today disclosed that all Netherlands public buildings in the main towns throughout the country are being guarded by strong detachments of soldiers.

Police forces have been fully mobilized during the night.

Amsterdam's "storm brigade" of defenders is ready to rush to any part of Holland.

Netherlands government authorities and military quarters have refused to comment on preparedness measures, which are more stringent than any since the world war.

NATION ON ALERT

It is intimated, however, that all preparations are part of a precautionary plan previously perfected in connection with the present war and the Dutch nation's

CAMPAIGN FOR BABY BONDS TO START EARLY

Sale Of Small Debentures Will Continue Indefinitely

By GRANT DEXTER
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, May 8.—The baby bond campaign will get under way before the end of the week and will be more far-reaching than earlier reports have indicated.

The final touches are now being put on the national organization of the campaign will start with a great publicity drive. Unlike ordinary loan campaigns, the sale of baby bonds will go on indefinitely and great efforts will be made to enlist the help of the whole community—bankers, businessmen, professional classes and labor executives.

SAVINGS STAMPS

The bonds will not yield a higher return than the prevailing rate on Dominion securities. The last war loan sold at 3¼ percent and the baby bonds may net around three percent. They will be sold in denominations as low as $5 and there will also be savings stamps.

The plan is to encourage children to buy 25 cent stamps and paste them on cards. When the cards are filled with stamps, the government will accept them in payment for a bond.

Buyers of these bonds will get their interest in a lump sum when the bond matures. You will pay $4 for a bond which, at maturity, will be worth $5. This is called appreciation of capital, not income and therefore no income tax will apply.

While the interest rate may be lower than the going rate on government bonds, it will be twice as high as the current rate of savings which is 1¼ percent.

4,162 Summonses Issued First Week Of Safety Patrol

TORONTO, May 8—During the first week of police safety patrol inaugurated here, 4,162 summonses were issued against motorists and cyclists, traffic inspector Edward Dunn announced yesterday. Net result of the program has been "a marked improvement in driving conditions."

German Aerial Attack On Convoy At Namsos Described As Terrific

Arthur Menken, British United Press special correspondent and Paramount News Reel cameraman, witnessed the British-French withdrawal from Namsos, on Norway's west-central coast, and, according to Allied troops, unafraid from a transport, ship waves of German bombing planes make five raids on the transports and the conveying warships. In the following dispatch he describes the raids during which the British destroyer Afridi and the French destroyer Bison were sunk. The dispatch was delayed many hours by British censors.—EDITOR.

By ARTHUR MENKEN
British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

A NORTHERN PORT, England, May 8.—(Passed by British Censor)—I took "the road back" from Norway with the Allied expeditionary force. It was a route that led to the Norwegian port of Namsos and thence through five battering German aerial bombardments at sea. The British destroyer Afridi and the French destroyer Bison were sunk but not a single member of the Allied-Norwegian expedition-ary force was wounded.

Namsos and the surrounding country was riddled with spies when the British-French expeditionary forces withdrew last Friday to be subjected to the five German bombing attacks.

The Allied troop transports crept into Namsos Thursday night and left the next day crowded with British soldiers and members of the crack French Chasseurs. I was evacuated from Namsos in the British-French convoy.

The Germans were 25 miles away in the direction of Bangsund and 50 miles away in the direction of Snasa, to the south and southeast of Namsos. I saw no Norwegian soldiers in Namsos and I do not believe that the Norwegians fought a rear guard action to cover the Allied withdrawal. There were many spies in Namsos and surrounding country, and it was impossible to trust the civilian population.

The troop transports and their British-French convoy ran the

KING HAAKON HINTS AT NEW AID FOR NORSE

Proclaims Determination "To Hold Out Until Country Free"

STOCKHOLM, May 8. — King Haakon of Norway, fugitive from the German invaders of his country, has proclaimed his government's determination "to hold out until our country is free again," He hinted that important new help is expected.

A statement, dated "somewhere in Norway" and released last night through the Norwegian news bureau, said in part:

"In northern Norway we still are holding strong positions. With the help now planned, we will succeed in retaining other parts of the country.

"The superiority of the enemy in numbers and technically on land and in the air has forced our retreat.

"We have reason to believe that this soon will be changed."

Norwegians Ordered To Keep Fighting

HELSINKI, May 8—Norwegians were ordered to keep on fighting in a proclamation issued by the Norwegian high command today through the Norsk Telegrambyra (Norwegian telegraph agency).

"We must not abandon the fight," the high command declared. "It goes on, and we shall conquer because right is on our side."

German Relief Force Is Moving North

STOCKHOLM, May 8.—The main German land force, setting out on the arduous overland journey from central Norway to the relief of Narvik, was reported moving from Roreos toward Solfen last night to join the advance units fighting small but strongly-barricaded Norwegian bands in the mountains overlooking vital passes.

A young Norwegian lieutenant who reached the Swedish border was quoted by the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet as relating how 100 Norwegians led by a mutinous sergeant were holding Gaulddalen Pass against the Germans 30 miles north of Roreos.

The lieutenant, who reached the border after a six-day ski trip, said the sergeant led a revolt when his captain's defence plans resulted in defeat at Storen.

The 100 rebels then barricaded themselves in the narrow pass, with headquarters and an ammunition train hidden in a railway tunnel.

PROVINCE TAKES NEW STEPS FOR ALBERTA BANK

Renewed steps have been started by the provincial government to introduce a private bill at the parliamentary session opening May 16, authorizing establishment of a provincial bank.

It was learned in reliable circles Wednesday that agents at Ottawa have been instructed to renew application for a bank charter, as the first steps initiated last January, before the dissolution of the last parliament, were nullified by dissolution.

It is understood that the application is being carried on under the direction of Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., minister of municipal affairs, who when the original application was made, made a flying trip to Ottawa to interview Dominion government officials.

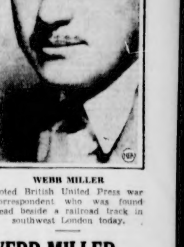

The Dominion Bank Act requires capitalization of a chartered bank at a minimum of $500,000, of which $250,000 must be fully paid up. At its last session the Alberta legislature ratified a bill authorizing the establishment of the bank and payment from provincial funds of $500,000 for incorporation and other costs.

The cabinet ministers are authorized to act as directors and officers of the bank under terms of the act

Solicitor Gen. Dies

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, May 8.—The death of Sir Terence James O'Connor, solicitor general since 1935, was announced in the Commons today. O'Connor died last night. He was 49 years of age.

WEBB MILLER

noted British United Press war correspondent who was found dead beside a railroad track in southwest London today.

WEBB MILLER, NOTED WRITER, FOUND DEAD

Believed To Have Fallen From Train While En Route From London

LONDON, May 8.—Webb Miller, noted war correspondent, was found dead today on a railway near Clapham Junction station, southwest London. It was believed he fell from a train shortly after it pulled out of the station.

Miller was European news manager for the United Press Associations.

He attended yesterday's historic debate in the House of Commons on the Norwegian campaign and left late last night for his home in the country after filing his cabled report. Acquaintances said he appeared in "excellent health."

(Mr. Miller's British United Press news dispatches were a feature of The Bulletin's European news reports. In June last year he visited Edmonton with the party of newspaper correspondents covering the Royal tour of Canada.)

Miller's body was found on the railway right of way at about 5:15 a.m. (9:15 p.m. M.S.T. Tuesday), but it was believed the accident which caused his death occured about nine o'clock last night.

BLOW ON HEAD

A hard blow on the right side of the head, apparently suffered when he fell from the moving train, was believed to have caused his death.

Miller, who was 48, had had wide experience as a war correspondent.

FEAR OF WAR IS GROWING IN BALKANS

any of the Balkan countries' frontiers, the Reich will send an ultimatum to that country demanding it choose immediately one or the other belligerent camp."

"In the event the country in question failed to answer with appropriate speed the Reich government would be forced to undertake any measures it thought advisable.

"Any Allied attempt to extend the war into southeastern Europe might force Germany and Italy to put into action much greater forces for the immediate frustration of any such attempt."

The Balkan tension appeared at its peak in Yugoslavia. Relations with 300,000 veteran troops already on her Italian and German frontiers, was calling up 100,000 men to the colors while improving fortifications and other defences.

While recruits streamed along Yugoslav roads to the wild tunes of Slavic marching songs, peasants helped army engineers pour concrete for tank barricades and in the nation's Adriatic harbors, facing Italy, minelayers loaded their explosive cargoes, ready to hide-side ports at a moment's notice.

BULGARIA IS KEY

Bulgaria appeared to be the key to any British plan to unite the Balkans in a defensive war. Bulgaria, most of all, has balked at any such alliance. She was a German ally in the first Great War.

The British ambassador to Turkey, Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, was in Sofia and was said to have made an offer for Bulgarian adherence to a defensive system. Bulgarian participation, it was said, would permit overland passage of Allied troops in the Near East to Rumania and Yugoslavia.

The Bulgarians were said to be inclined to look to Russia for such support. Germany was reported to have tried to throw a wrench in the British plan through her own envoy negotiator, Dr. Kai Clodius. However, Dr. Clodius left Sofia for Berlin by plane yesterday.

Italy To Remain In Peace With Balkans

ROME, May 8—Virginio Gayda, writing in Il Giornale D'Italia, declared today that Italy "intends to remain in peace and friendly co-operation" with the Balkan countries.

His statement was made in arguing that any British blockade of Italy at Gibraltar would fail because essential supplies could be obtained from the Balkans.

Il Messaggero accused the Allies of spreading false reports and said accounts of strong Italian troop reinforcements on the Yugoslav frontier were false.

Gayda said that Gibraltar could not change Italy's position and decision. But, he added, this did not mean that Italy was abandoning her "claim to freedom" in the Mediterranean.

Fascist newspapers published and thereby gave authority to a Moscow report that Italy would enter the war only if the Allies violated Balkan neutrality. The article was reproduced from the Soviet trades union newspaper Trud and coincided with diplomatic opinion in Rome.

KAKEE, Yugoslavia (At the Italian border), May 8—Yugoslavia tightened her anti-espionage control and placed all railway stations under military command today following reports of the arrest and expulsion of three Italian army officers.

Government officials denied the report, but informed circles said the authorities at the important Dalmatian railroad centre of Knin had seized three Italian officers in possession of new photographs of Yugoslav fortifications.

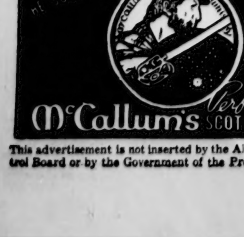

Many informed Yugoslavs fear Italy would use her base at Zara on the Dalmatian coast to thrust behind Yugoslavia's strategic defend frontier with Germany and try to outflank Yugoslav forces east of Maribor, key port in the country's northern defences.

ATHENS, May 8—Official quarters asserted today that both Great Britain and Italy have given assurances indicating that neither country is desirous of infringing on Greece's neutrality.

The assurances were described as "sufficient to inspire confidence among the Greek people."

Six Killed When Norwegian Vessel Bombed By Nazis

LONDON, May 8—A Norwegian high command communique, released here from "somewhere in Norway" by Reuters News Agency, said early today six persons were killed when German planes bombed and machine-gunned the 1,000-ton Norwegian passenger steamship Folden, which was wrecked.

This advertisement is not inserted by the Alberta Liquor Control Board or by the Government of the Province of Alberta.

Unions Condemn Burdens Imposed On Working Class

BLACKPOOL, May 8—The National Union of Distributive and Allied Workers yesterday passed a resolution condemning "the action of the present government in placing financial and military burdens of war upon the working class, while that section which is deriving financial benefit from the war is left untouched."

AIR BOMBING CONVOY SHIPS SAID TERRIFIC

gazines and five internal crash by 50 German bombing planes which dropped 200 bombs. The Afridi and the Bison went down, but not a single member of the Allied Norwegian Expeditionary Force was lost.

DROP LIKE PLUMMETS

There were British troops and Chasseurs Alpins aboard my ship. As I lay in a corridor on deck alongside unshaven soldiers my head was banged to the deck when the first bomb from nine attacking German planes dropped. Then three of the planes singled us out. The attack and dropped, like plummets, from the sky.

I rushed to the deck to find the water boiling from the first explosions and the anti-aircraft guns creating an infernal din and filling the sky with gray puffs of their exploding shells.

Then six planes dropped a curtain of bombs alongside the ship and another soon doing no damage. Large bombs exploded not more than 300 yards from my ship.

Two German planes roared down out of the sun dropping another salvo of bombs. One of them hit the destroyer Bison which was part of our escort.

Despite the hit, the French gunners stuck by their anti-aircraft guns, firing shells and machine gun bullets at the planes. They downed one of the attacking planes.

A terrific explosion which created a great pall of smoke suddenly hid the Bison from my view. She was about half a mile distant. Then I saw other destroyers rushing to the assistance of the Bison as she slowly started to sink.

As we drew farther away I heard more loud explosions.

We were followed by a German flying boat which never let us get out of sight.

The German planes attacked with a barrage of bombs laid horizontally and then attacked the destroyers.

One Junkers JUP flying-bomber zipped down from the sky at the Afridi.

DROPS FROM CONVOY

The Junkers released a group of bombs and by the tremendous explosion we knew that the Afridi had been hit. She heeled over to starboard, then plunged on through the water with undiminished speed. Then she circled around with smoke pouring forth. She dropped out of convoy.

Other destroyers rushed to the aid of the Afridi while a hail of bombs rained down upon the ships which made up the convoy.

With the blazing Afridi in the centre of the stage, the German planes above raining death and destruction, and with all the ships blazing away with anti-aircraft guns and machineguns, it was a terrifying sight.

The troops huddled below decks on my ship which was a mile away from the Afridi.

They stood in the corridors seeking shelter from the flying shrapnel and bomb splinters. The planes returned in an effor to finish off the Afridi, dropping bombs on all sides of the crippled ship and sending fountains of water plunging up into the air.

Later on there was a submarine scare. The destroyers dropped depth charges and we got out of submarine. Later still a British flying boat came over, seeking the submarines. There were 20 German prisoners and 30 Allied sailors among the wounded on my ship. One of the German prisoners had been wounded in the hand.

DOG RUNS WILD

The most frightened passenger of the whole company was a St. Bernard dog which ran wild and attacked some of the French Chasseurs Alpins.

We reached this harbor Sunday, but before the convoy was within sight of land I was asked to remain in a cabin at the waterline with two American correspondents and a Danish cameraman. The port-hole was sealed to prevent us looking out. We were detained for 20 hours during which time there was an air raid alarm, but no guns were fired.

Sitting in my hotel room I still can imagine I see the German bombers, hear the drone of their engines and the whistle of falling bombs. One trivial detail I'll never in my memory. During the fight three rats scurried out of a life boat, rushed down a rope to the deck and plunged unhesitatingly into the sea.

NETHERLANDS READY REPEL ANY INVASION

determination to be on the alert for any development.

Reports from Belgium say that everything is quiet on that country.

The fact that everywhere was reported quiet caused the Dutch public to accept the statement that their government's extraordinary military preparations are precautionary. But what has caused the sudden precautionary moves remains a mystery.

The general feeling is that there is nervousness among the Germans and the Allies . . . each believing that the other might make some move which would involve the Netherlands or other neutral countries.

Belgian Cabinet Studies Situation

BRUSSELS, May 8—The Belgian cabinet met in special emergency session today to consider the new situation implied by The Netherlands' emergency defence moves.

The entire international situation was reviewed by Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak.

Measures taken by The Netherlands were prompted by fears Germany is planning to establish air bases in Holland to launch air attacks against Britain, informed Belgian sources said.

German troops are being concentrated near the Dutch frontier from the Rhine to the Ems and Emden, and reports are also coming in Hamburg and Bremen, according to reports here.

Much of the basis of these reports is was feared the Germans were planning a mass attack on northern France in an attempt to establish an unbroken string of air and naval bases facing Great Britain from the mouth of the Rhine to central Norway.

New Scare Holds Military Spotlight

By AXEL DE HOCHSTEIN
Havas Staff Writer

PARIS, May 8—The Netherland's new war scare held the military spotlight today as Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht arrived in Paris coincidental with announcement that veteran Polish mountain troops have been landed in Marseilles to bolster the Allied expeditionary force.

No change in the "battle order" of the German armies along the Western Front has been observed, it was said.

POLISH COMMUNIQUE

A communique issued by the general staff of the reconstituted Polish army said:

"Polish chasseur detachments from the Carpathians, reorganized in France, have landed very recently in Norway, where they will fight at the side of British, French and Norwegian troops against the German invaders."

Koht, who came here by plane, went immediately from La Bourget airport to the Quai d'Orsay for a conference with Premier Reynaud. Norwegians said they were confident with new successes in the Rroros sector, where they were said to be escalating the harassing tactics used so tellingly against the Red army by Finnish patrols.

While a German advance guard has entered Elverum there is no basis to reports that Molde and other ports have been taken over by the invaders, it was insisted here.

THREAT TO NETHERLANDS

While no exceptional German military movements were reported here from The Netherlands frontier, French army sources emphasized that the possibility of a Nazi "blitzkrieg" against the Dutch was not to be discounted. The threat of German aggression has been constantly hanging over The Netherlands since German troops first massed along the border in the early days of the war, it was pointed out.

The calm prevailing along the western front was broken only by local engagements in the Saar and sectors around the Bliss river and to the west of the Vosges foothills.

British Columbia Starts Drilling For Oil In North

VICTORIA, May 8—The British Columbia government started drilling for oil in the Peace River district yesterday, Premier Pattullo announced.

The first bit dug into the rock on a site near Commotion Creek. The contractors have equipment on hand to go down to 6,000 feet, indications of oil or gas being promised by engineers are that oil, if it is there, should be reached at about 6,500 feet.

Premier Pattullo noted that if the drillers strike oil the legislation now making it open before the special session of the legislature today will be particularly useful.

RESIGNATION OF PREMIER IS DEMANDED

way "are no defense for the government," he said.

"The first instalment of our forces to Norway should have been picked men. It went on ships.

"The Germans had picked men."

"We are all proud to read of the gallantry of our men," Lloyd George said, "but we cannot rejoice at a battle that we should make fools of them."

NO CAUSE FOR PANIC

"There is no cause for panic, but there is grave cause for pulling ourselves together.

He charged that neutral countries no longer would put faith in British guarantees unless bolder action were taken.

"Tell me one neutral country that would be impressed to stand up to the Nazis on a mere promise from us," he said.

TELL THE FACTS

"Tell the country the facts," Lloyd George continued. They must realize the magnitude of our jeopardy. We need real action, not the sham we have had. We have had a petty cash balance sheet of losses on either side is no use. "Strategically we are in a much worse position than before."

Lloyd George's remarks were a gibe at Chamberlain who last week said the balance sheet in Norway favored the Allies.

Chamberlain announced his decision to risk the life of his government on the question of confidence to the cheers of members of the house who had just heard the caustic denunciation of Chamberlain by Herbert Morrison, a Labor party leader.

Morrison concluded his attack by announcing that the Labor party was determined to force the issue to a vote tonight.

Chamberlain leaped to his feet and declared that he welcomed the opposition's challenge and would accept their proposal for a vote.

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE

"I accept the challenge," he declared with heat. "I welcome it, indeed, for at least we shall see who is with us and who is against us."

He declared that "naturally as the head of the government I accept the primary responsibility for the actions of the government and any of my colleagues will not be slow to accept their responsibility."

credited with new successes in the Rroros sector, where they were said to be escalating the harassing tactics used so tellingly against the Red army by Finnish patrols.

While a German advance guard has entered Elverum there is no basis to reports that Molde and other ports have been taken over by the invaders, it was insisted here.

THREAT TO NETHERLANDS

While no exceptional German military movements were reported here from The Netherlands frontier, French army sources emphasized that the possibility of a Nazi "blitzkrieg" against the Dutch was not to be discounted. The threat of German aggression has been constantly hanging over The Netherlands since German troops first massed along the border in the early days of the war, it was pointed out.

The calm prevailing along the western front was broken only by local engagements in the Saar and sectors around the Bliss river and to the west of the Vosges foothills.

PERSONAL ATTACK

He vigorously attacked Morrison who he charged with making a personal attack upon him and again warned of the Communist menace dangers to Britain and the necessity for national unity.

"We are facing a relentless enemy," he asserted, "who must be fought by the united action of this country."

'It may well be," the prime minister said, "that it is a duty to criticize the government. I do not seek to evade criticism. But I say this to my friends in the house—and I have friends in the house—the government can never execute the war efficiently unless it has public and parliamentary support."

Government supporters vociferously cheered Chamberlain's assertion that he had "friends in the house."

In some quarters Chamberlain's spirited retort to Morrison was believed to be a threat to hold a general election if the opposition to him continues to challenge his conduct of the war.

TORY WHIP ACTIVE

The Conservative whip, Capt. Henry David Reginald Margesson, was vigorously rallying Conservatives behind the support of the government in anticipation of the vote.

Morrison charged that Chamberlain and some of his fellow cabinet members were employing Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, as a shield to protect them from criticism.

"When the government is in trouble," he declared, "they tend to bring the First Lord into the shop window in the belief that will satisfy public criticism."

GRAVE RISK

He charged that if Chamberlain and his close political associates, Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Sir Samuel Hoare, air minister, remain in office there is grave risk that Britain will lose the war.

Decision to force a vote that is tantamount to a non-confidence ballot was reached by the Labor party prior to renewal of debate this afternoon in which the cabinet leadership waged a battle against the opposition that mounted to a point where the outcome seemed doubtful.

Developments included:

1—Chamberlain said that British forces in the Narvik zone faced grave risks pending establishment of Allied air superiority in north Norway, but ignored a critical suggestion by Labor's Hugh Dalton that Allied troops seeking to crush German resistance at the iron-ore port might be withdrawn "in the next week or two".

2—Lord Strabolgi, retired naval officer, joined the attack of Sir Roger Keyes, British naval hero, on the lack of bold action against Germans in Norwegian waters, suggesting that perhaps Trondheim could have been captured, but that Oslo fjord might have been seized by the Allies.

3—Richard A. Butler, parliamentary foreign secretary, said that restoration of freedom and independence of Norway and Denmark was one of the Allied war aims.

4—Herbert Morrison, Laborite, renewed the attack on Chamberlain in the House of Commons, declaring that the whole cabinet was open to censure for failure "of the Norwegian campaign.

Morrison criticized the British diplomatic and intelligence services on the basis of their action in Norway.

"But," he added, "if the intelligence service did report and the ministers did not act on their information, the ministers are directly responsible in a grave degree."

Before Lloyd George spoke the debate was resumed by Sir Samuel Hoare who declared German air losses have been "three times those of Britain" in the last month "and in Scandinavia.

In the House of Lords, Lord Hankey, a member of the war cabinet without portfolio, disclosed that one of our great losses in the campaign was April 20 when "a ship in convoy loaded with anti-aircraft guns and high explosive stores was torpedoed and sunk."

LACK OF BASES

Sir Samuel Hoare also announced the loss in the House of Commons and said: "Of course, we have had a petty cash balance sheet of losses on either side is no use. "Strategically we are in a much worse position than before."

Lloyd George's remarks were a gibe at Chamberlain who last week said the balance sheet in Norway favored the Allies.

CANADA PILOT IS DECORATED FOR GALLANTRY

LONDON, May 8—Pilot-Officer David Wills, hunky young Royal Air Force flier from St. Boniface Man., has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for gallantry and devotion to duty in a series of operations, the air ministry announced here today.

He was among six officers awarded the D.F.C., while three other airmen won the Distinguished Flying Medal.

Wills was the hero of an air drama in the clouds high over Berlin during the first pamphlet raid over the German capital. He is 25 and joined the R.A.F. in 1937.

The Canadian, a six-footer with what his superior officers called amazing stamina, was navigator during the pamphlet raid last October. His pilot, a comrade said afterwards that he "never thought anyone could do what that great big tough Canadian did."

WEBB MILLER, NOTED WRITER, FOUND DEAD

He leaves his widow, Marie, and a son, Kenneth, 18, both in the United States.

While in England he had been living at Walton-on-Thames, 17 miles southeast of London.

NO WITNESSES

Police were unable to find any witnesses to the accident.

Authorities theorized, however, that Miller had planned to change trains at Clapham and did not realize the train had reached that station until it started up again. Confused by the blackout, and thinking the train was still beside the platform, they said, he probably stepped from his compartment and fell to the tracks.

Miller was well known for his personal reportorial exploits, which began when he was assigned to the Moscow bureau in 1916. He had covered every major international conflict of the past 25 years.

His last assignment was in Finland, where he covered the fighting around Lake Ladoga. Before the war broke out in Finland he was with the British expeditionary forces in France.

CAREER SUMMARIZED

His career was summarized in his autobiographic book, "I Found No Peace," published in 1936. In his own words, he had "a grandstand seat at the most momentous show in history."

He covered the Sinn Fein uprising in Ireland, visited the British front in France and in 1918 served as a war correspondent on the American front during heavy fighting.

After the war, Miller covered the Cannes conference, where he met a fellow reporter—Benito Mussolini. Ten years later he interviewed Il Duce in Rome.

He covered the Riff campaign in Morocco in 1925, the civil disobedience campaign fostered by Mohandas Gandhi in India in 1930, the Italian invasion of Abyssinia, the fall of Madrid in the Spanish Civil War, the Munich conference and the German march into Czechoslovakia.

One of his biggest peacetime assignments was the abdication of King Edward VIII, and in the following months he witnessed the coronation of King George VI, and the marriage in France of the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield.

Last year Miller accompanied King George and Queen Elizabeth on their tour of Canada and the United States, then returned to Europe where again he "found no peace."

Experiments In U-235 Lauded As Opening Up New Scientific World

CHAMBERLAIN'S SINCERITY GETS FRENCH PRAISE

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS, May 8—Prime Minister Chamberlain's House of Commons speech in defence of the Allied Norwegian campaign was approved in Paris last night for its absolute sincerity and complete coolness in a difficult situation.

In the opinion of high French observers the prime minister outlined the many difficulties facing the Allied forces in the Trondheim area and showed that they look to cope with them in masterly fashion.

There was complete agreement in authoritative French quarters with Mr. Chamberlain's statement that the Allies could not weaken their war position as a whole by concentrating an overwhelming force in Norway and thus pave the way for a Nazi attack at some other point.

But from the entire speech, the most satisfactory element to French observers was his clear-cut and solemn affirmation that the revtrse in Norway would have no effect on the determination of Great Britain and France to bring the war to a victorious conclusion.

Farmer Killed

ARELEE, Sask., May 8—Sam H. Semenoff, 43-year-old farmer was injured fatally yesterday when a wheel of a tractor and seeder crushed him. Arelee is 45 miles northwest of Saskatoon.

A Cornell University scientist, however, said Monday night there is no immediate likelihood of coal, oil or electricity being supplanted by U-235 and this appears to be the general view of the Canadian government and National Research Council experts.

Radium is produced from uranium ore deposits in the North-West Territories, but up to now the ore has not had other sufficiently valuable properties to make it commercially important in other respects. It has been sold as yellow or black powder to glaze painted pottery and also has been alloyed with copper in uranium steel.

The Jivaro Indians of South America used blowguns made from the wing-cases of giant beetles.

1940 Edition Of New York World's Fair Will Cater To Average Citizen

NEW YORK, May 8—The 1940 edition of the New York World's fair has been revolutionized to suit the average American, who seldom has more than $10 in his pocket.

Because there were 25,000,000 fewer admissions than expected last year—and fair officials believe it was the average man who stayed away—the fair will open May 11 not as the "Colossus of Culture" but just the "Biggest darned country fair there ever was." It's an informal show with emphasis on fun this year.

ADD TO AMUSEMENTS

Eight million dollars have been spent revamping the fair to that end—$5,000,000 of that on the mile-square "amusement area," which has been renamed "The Great White Way."

Last year the area had three principal shows. This year there will be at least 10, including a big ballet theatre presenting three different shows almost continuously.

In the exhibit area, the keynote has been changed from static displays to action. The Gas Industries building, for example, instead of showing an uninspiring lineup of kitchen ranges, will demonstrate the use of gas in a model town.

Most prices have been seat down. The admission is 50 cents instead of 75, and 25 cents for children. Parking is 25 cents instead of 50. Food prices are extensively lower.

In the exhibit area an open green, where each week a group of Americans of foreign decent will hold a national bazaar, replaces the dismantled Russian building.

NINE NATIONS WITHDRAW

Nine other nations have withdrawn, notably the Netherlands, Chile and Argentina.

The "orphan" nations will all be there—Czecho-Slovakia, supported by the informally organized friends of the country; Poland, backed by the Polish government in exile in France; and Finland. Norway has given up her space in the Hall of Nations to Denmark, but will operate her pavilion and snack bar.

France has enlarged its highly successful balcony restaurant and has added an exhibit of "France at war," depicting the mobilization of the nation's resources. Great Britain will have a similar exhibit. The Canadian pavilion has also been expanded.

U.S. TO KEEP BATTLE FLEET AT HONOLULU

Tension Over Dutch Indies Is Believed Cause For Decision

WASHINGTON, May 8—At a time when the United States government is anxious about the possible fate of the Dutch East Indies, the commander of the fleet was given official permission to keep the formidable fighting force in the Hawaiian area instead of bringing it back to the west coast of the United States on schedule.

This aroused immediate speculation here last night as to whether officials hoped the decision would have a deterring effect on the Japanese, although navy officers insisted the step was for "training purposes" and had no other significance.

HULL GIVES WARNING

For weeks, the world has been wondering whether Japan might move to "protect" the Indies in case their mother country, the Netherlands, were engulfed in war. Secretary of State Cordell Hull recently cautioned other nations, particularly Japan, that any interference in the status of the East Indies would prejudice the peace of the entire Pacific.

The news of the decision concerning the fleet came just as the Netherlands, apparently fearful of some immediate move in her direction, cut off outgoing telephone calls and ordered cessation of weather broadcasts.

At Honolulu, Admiral James P. Richardson, commander of the United States fleet, said the navy department at Washington had approved his request that the fleet remain in the Hawaiian area for exercises and training. This was confirmed here.

MAIN FLEET LEAVES

A force of approximately 25 fighting craft and a base force, which includes tankers, supply ships and the hospital ship Relief had been expected to leave for the California coast Wednesday.

Admiral Richardson earlier announced the main body of the fleet, comprising approximately 90 ships, including the aircraft carriers Saratoga and Yorkton, and 11 battleships, would sail Thursday morning for the mainland.

WOMAN GOES ON TRIAL FOR 'PEG MURDER

WINNIPEG, May 8.—Mrs. Frances Harrop, first woman to be charged with murder in Manitoba in 25 years, went on trial here yesterday before Mr. Justice A. K. Dysart in the court of King's Bench for the killing of her husband, George, last April 15.

Harrop was found dead in their home with two revolver bullet wounds in his head. Medical testimony showed that he died five or six hours earlier.

George Thomas, a nephew of Mrs. Harrop, testified he went to the Harrop home on the morning Harrop was found dead. Mrs. Harrop had told him:

"I have done away with him. I shot him twice."

Mrs. Jennie Thomas, a sister of Mrs. Harrop, said that the accused woman was high strung and easily provoked and sometimes "didn't seem to know what she was doing or saying." Mrs. Harrop, she said, had an obsession that her husband intended to "do away with her."

3 DELEGATES LABOR COUNCIL ARE EXPELLED

VANCOUVER, May 8 — Three delegates to the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council were expelled on charges of being "Communists or Communist sympathizers" at a turbulent meeting of the council here last night.

The executive of the Shipyards' Union left the council hall in a body after President E. A. Jamieson unseated delegates Charles Stewart of the Street Railwaymen's Union, E. E. Leary of the Shipyards Laborers' Union, and J. Maley of the Printing Pressmen's Union.

President Jamieson said he was acting on a recent referendum of the council which upheld a resolution of the American Federation of Labor to expel Communists and sympathizers.

Cheers, boos and hisses mingled as the expelled delegates and sympathizers marched from the meeting.

Law Rules Out Plan To Raffle Gold Mesh Bag

TORONTO, May 8.—Plans for raising money for sports equipment for soldiers by raffling a gold mesh bag donated to a citizens' committee by Mary Pickford were dashed yesterday. Application for a lottery license revealed that one could not be issued for the raffling of any article valued at more than $50. The bag, sprinkled with sapphires and diamonds, was valued at $1,500 by the Toronto-born actress.

Love Laughs at Nazis

There's a good reason for Viennese actress Vilma Kurer's smile. The "Bathtub Girl," as she was called after playing that role in Vienna from the Broadway hit, "The Woman," was faced with alternative of marrying a U.S. citizen or being deported to Germany, from which she had fled. Recently she announced her engagement to Michael Joffre Lewis of New York. "I wouldn't marry for convenience," she explained. "I love him, and we're going to have lots and lots of babies."

BOARD HEARS CONDITIONS IN CAFE INDUSTRY

CALGARY, May 8—Whether or not hours of work, working conditions and wage scales in the Alberta cafe "industry" will be changed was in the hands of the Board of Industrial Relations yesterday after the board heard representations from employers and employees.

The full board of Clayton Adams, chairman, W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry, F. Rasmussen, and R. J. Gaunt, secretary, sat all day in the provincial building while waiters, waitresses, cooks, dishwashers and their bosses told them why or why not present regulations should be changed.

Split shifts, cost of meals to employees, who should pay for uniforms and their laundering and wages were all discussed.

No nobody would feel cramped or afraid to talk the press was excluded from the discussions and employers and employees met separately. The employers met during the morning and the employees in the afternoon. There were 28 restaurant managers present in the morning and 45 employees during the afternoon.

Sittings have also been held in Edmonton and Lethbridge. After considering what they have heard the board will hand down the decision.

UNEMPLOYED DELAY STRIKE AFTER MEET

CALGARY, May 8—Pending replies from the provincial government and the city council on their grievances, the Calgary unemployed association withheld action on its proposed "relief strike" last night.

The association has presented an ultimatum to the city asking that the winter relief schedule be restored for the summer, with a limit of 40 hours of relief work a week.

It has also sent to the provincial government a letter asking a definition of "relief work" as compared to "maintenance work," claiming that the city forces its relief workers to do "maintenance work" in the city.

Neither the province nor the city has replied. The association is also protesting against any possible cuts in relief which may be imposed.

The Drumheller unemployed association is sending a delegation to Edmonton to interview the government on relief problems, particularly seeking an order prohibiting cities from using reliefers in "maintenance work." The Calgary Association has advised the Drumheller group it is co-operating.

Sky Is Limit For British Spending To Win Conflict

LONDON, May 8. — Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, told the National Savings Association yesterday that the sky is the limit in British war expenditures.

"We must at all costs put forward our maximum possible effort for the purpose of winning the war," Sir John said, and there is "no other limit."

He remarked that if Gladstone knew today's budget "he would not merely turn in his grave—he would turn dizzy."

Formal Inquiry Is Ordered In Sinking

TORONTO, May 8—The department of transport in Ottawa has ordered a formal inquiry into the sinking last Wednesday of the freighter Arlington to be held in Midland next Friday, Frank Wilkinson, K.C., representing the ship owners, was advised yesterday.

Executive Dies

VICTORIA, May 8—John A. Logan, 69, former manager of the Canadian Mortgage Company's Association in Winnipeg, died here Monday.

Cameraman In Tears As Film Goes To Bottom

AT A NORTHERN BRITISH PORT, May 8. — Two American cameramen who risked their lives throughout the entire Namsos campaign to photograph bombings, fires and exploding shells, were the saddest individuals among those who landed yesterday with the British and French forces returning from Norway.

They were ordered before leaving to send their film to the London war office.

The films were taken aboard H.M.S. Bittern. From a hill at Namsos they watched the sloop sail, and saw German dive-bombers attack and sink her.

"I never have taken better pictures," said Bonny Powell, one of the cameramen. "I cried as I saw the Bittern go down."

FRENCH CRUISER SUFFERS DAMAGE ON CONVOY DUTY

PARIS, May 8.—The French minelaying cruiser Emile Bertin, 5,886 tons, was struck by a heavy bomb and slightly damaged while convoying troops to Namsos late in April, it was officially disclosed here last night. The exact date was not revealed immediately.

The attack occurred at the entrance to Namsos fjord. One large bomb dropped a few yards from the vessel and a second struck the spardeck. Although she sprang a leak, it was repaired immediately and she was able to continue her assigned task.

Anti-aircraft fire from her guns kept the Germans at too great a distance for accurate bombing.

Laid down in 1931 and completed in 1934 she has made 37 knots in a 13-foot swell and 39.8 knots on trials. She is 580 feet long.

At home the newspaper Paris-Soir reported the arrest at Nantes of George Poupon, private secretary of Maurice Thorez, fugitive secretary-general of the outlawed French Communist party. He was disguised as a hotel porter.

Accused Denies Woman's Story Of Toronto Assault

TORONTO, May 8—Tony Bello, 23, one of three men accused of criminally assaulting the 26-year-old wife of an Ottawa member of the Royal Canadian Air Force, yesterday contradicted the woman's story that she had been forced into a car April 3, the night of the alleged assault. Bello said she had "made a date" to go out with him that night.

Testifying at criminal assizes here, Bello denied the woman had resisted his advances, and asserted no one had struck her. Previous medical testimony had said the woman had been struck. She came here recently from a western Canada centre.

New Zealand Pilot With R.A.F. Makes Gruelling Scotland-Narvik Flight

LONDON, May 8.—The vivid story of a gruelling 2,000-mile non-stop reconnaissance flight from Scotland to Narvik and return was told last night by a flight lieutenant of the Royal Air Force coastal command who helped pilot the Wellington bomber which made the 14½-hour round trip.

The flight was the longest reconnaissance operation carried out by British fliers in the war, covering more ground than the flights into Poland and to Prague.

NO AUTOMATIC PILOT

The officer, a New Zealander from Northeote, Auckland, and the other crew members are attached to the R.A.F. New Zealand bomber squadron.

"We were over land only for a few minutes," the officer said. "There was no automatic pilot in the aircraft and the second pilot and I, before we had finished, had shared 14½ hours at the controls.

"At dawn we were told we were to reconnoitre the Norwegian coast in the Lofoten islands and the vast fjord to Narvik. We ran into extraordinary weather conditions with heavy rain squalls and finally, near the Norwegian coast, a snowstorm. For a long time we had a 27 degrees frost.

"When we reached the Norwegian coast we got ready for anything. The wireless operator manned the front gun, the second pilot acted as fire-control officer and the rear gunner took his place in his turret. Norway, covered in deep snow, was an inspiring sight. We were flying in and out of snow and sleet above the sea. There were such terrific bumps that the gunners frequently banged their heads as they were flung upward out of their seats.

ENEMY PLANE RUNS

"We met an enemy aircraft as he went towards the Vest fjord but he shifted off when he saw us. We flew up the fjord through driving snow at only 200 feet. We continued the reconnaissance southward down the coast as far as Kristiansand and then turned for home. Up to that time none of us had eaten any of the rations we carried. We were too excited about doing the job, but now all had a cup of coffee and some sandwiches."

Calgary Laborer Awarded $7,034 In Street Car Suit

CALGARY, May 8.—Judgment for $7,034.15 was awarded William Akenclose, laborer, against the city of Calgary by Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie in Supreme Court yesterday.

The payment was ordered as a result of a street car accident on October 29, 1937, in which Akenclose was injured. The plaintiff was hurt when the tram in which he was riding in the early morning on his way to work at Ogden slid backwards in a subway and hit another street car following it.

N.B. PLANNING TOBACCO TAX OF 10 PER CENT

Measure Is Introduced In Provincial House On Tuesday

FREDERICTON, May 8—A provincial tobacco tax of 10 per cent of the present retail price is provided for in a bill introduced in the New Brunswick legislature Tuesday by Provincial Secretary-Treasurer J. J. Hayes Doone.

The tax would raise the price of nine cigarettes to 11 cents, compared with a present 10-cent cost and prewar price of nine cents.

The bill provides for taxation of all forms of tobacco sold in New Brunswick.

The provincial secretary-treasurer may appoint inspectors to enforce the act. They would have considerable latitude in searching vendors' premises and books to make certain the tax is being paid.

The bill provides that "a consumer shall be and remain liable for the tax until the same has been collected." Fines up to $500 or jail terms not exceeding three months are provided for infractions of the act, which is expected to become effective June 1.

A proposed Corporations Tax Act amendment provides for imposition of a 10 per cent surtax over and above other taxes paid by the companies. The profits tax would be increased from one per cent to 2½ per cent.

GERMAN PLANES BOMB HELPLESS NORWAY SHIPS

LONDON, May 8—German airplanes have recently bombed a hospital ship, a passenger vessel and a ship loaded with refugees, well informed sources here reported yesterday.

The hospital ship, the Bronning Maud, was said to have been hit by two high explosive bombs which killed or wounded 27 patients and nurses.

The 921-ton Norwegian ship Tordenskjold was reported bombed while loaded with women and children fleeing from the Scandinavian war zone. Two bombs hit the Tordenskjold, killing two persons. Finnish refugees were among the passengers.

Another unidentified passenger ship also was bombed, but there were no casualties.

Swaziland Chief's Appeal Dismissed By Privy Council

LONDON, May 8—The judicial committee of the Privy Council yesterday dismissed the appeal of Chief Fakisandhla Nkambule of Swaziland against his conviction of the poisoning of one of his wives, his brother and his brother's wife.

The Chief of Swaziland, a British protectorate in southeast Africa, was convicted of plotting with a witch doctor to kill members of his family at a ceremonial feast held to exercise demons which were supposed to have brought the chief evil dreams.

The witch doctor pleaded guilty to a charge of complicity in the murders.

Queen Makes Visit To Hospital Depot

LONDON, May 8—The Queen yesterday celebrated Hospitals' Flag Day by visiting the city hospital depot at Mansion House. In a message to hospital workers, Her Majesty said the hospitals' cause "is more vital and pressing than ever before."

Son Of Lapointe To Move Address In Throne Reply

OTTAWA, May 8—Hugues Lapointe, newly-elected member of the House of Commons for Lotbiniere and son of the justice minister, Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, will move the address in reply to the speech from the throne when parliament opens next May 18, it was announced last night.

James Sinclair, member for Vancouver North, will second the address. Both are Liberal members.

It Isn't Our Government

The Chamberlain Government is under fire, hot fire, plenty of it, and from many quarters. And, some Canadians will think, with more or less ground for criticism. But let us not do too much of our thinking out loud, whether it be for or against, and that only in measured language. It isn't our Government, but that of Great Britain. And our friends in the Old Lands haven't asked us for any help in condemning or defending it. More than that, they would resent a Canadian controversy on the subject, just as we would resent a controversy in Great Britain as to the merits or demerits of a Government of Canada.

It may be said, not without some truth, that as we are participating in the war, we have a proper right to estimate the calibre of the men who are directing the war. But our kinsmen over there are closer to the war than we are, they have more at stake immediately at least, they have been governing themselves in peace and war for a good many years with tolerable success, and we can safely leave the hot debating in this instance to them.

Norway's Mistake

In his review of the conquest of Norway, Prime Minister Chamberlain stated with emphatic clearness that the Norwegian authorities refused to allow the Allies to land troops in the country until the German attack was actually in progress. The fact should get attention in both neutral and Allied countries, for it is the key to the disaster that has befallen Norway and the reverse sustained by the Allies in trying to save it when the time had passed at which effective help could and would have been given.

Norway, like Sweden and Holland, stood upon its dignity as an independent state, trusted that neutrality would secure it against assault, and would not accept Allied protection. This was its right, and in other circumstances would have been a course of safety. But it was a mistake in the circumstances which now exist in the world, for the rulers of Germany do not respect neutral rights when these stand in the way of their plans of conquest. Norway's neutrality was in effect their opportunity. They traded on Norwegian friendship to fill the country with bribers and spies, and when these had paved the way, landed their army and took possession.

Norway, "surprised and betrayed" by the power it had trusted, called for the Allied aid it had formerly refused. The Allies, to the credit of their chivalry, whatever may be said of their judgment, tried to give it the help it so desperately needed—and failed. Failed at the cost of men, materials and prestige.

This plain and well-known chronicle of events carries an equally plain moral for other neutral countries. Their neutrality is not worth the effort of declaring it if they are within reach of Nazi forces. Neutrality today is a privilege rather than a right, and can be held in certainty of possession only by countries strong enough to resist Nazi aggression or far enough away to be immune from it.

European neutrals which want to preserve their independence may as well join the Allies openly and at once. Norway presents the picture of what awaits them in Hitler's good time if they don't.

The Allies may see in this bitter experience a reason why they should not in future rush in to try to salvage countries which have rejected their offers of protection and depended for safety upon an outlaw's respect for law.

"Air Superiority"

"Local air superiority" of the enemy is admitted to have been the direct reason why it was not possible—or not worth the sacrifice—to hold ports in southern Norway where Allied troops had been landed and the inland areas to which these had penetrated. Officers and men who have returned to England tell how overwhelming that superiority was. It amounted almost to a monopoly of the Norwegian air. The detachments were landed and left for days without protection of combat planes or anti-aircraft guns. Marooned in a wilderness of rocks and snow, they had only rifles and machine-guns to defend themselves against Nazi planes which came over in waves and bombed their open positions at will.

General Ironsides paid the returned men the high and well-deserved tribute of saying they were not driven out of Norway but were "ordered out". The wonder is there were any left when the order came.

However the lack of anti-aircraft guns may be accounted for, the absence of defence planes is explained as not being due to a scarcity of planes but to the want of landing places. The enemy, having got into the country first, naturally seized the points where there were air-fields. Without ground facilities, the Allied airmen could not operate. What they needed, and could not get in the mountainous region, were patches of good level ground.

The one consoling reflection about the whole affair is that it cannot happen again. It has been demonstrated, among a good many other things, that infantry armed only with weapons to fight infantry, is at the mercy of airmen. If that fact was not known before, it is patent now. And landing places are no less necessary to an air force than planes and men who know how to fly them.

It will be noted, however, that a speeding-up of airplane construction and the training of airmen was announced in London, presumably as a result of the experience in Norway. The suggestion is that the losses in the operations there have caused a revision of previous estimates of the margin to be allowed for wastage, and point a need for a faster output of machines and trained fliers in order to establish and maintain air superiority for the Allies.

The Commonwealth Air Training scheme, now coming into operation in Canada, will help to meet the one need, as men will be graduating from these schools by the time the accelerated production of planes begins to show results. What enemy planes were able to do in Norway indicates the necessity of bringing the Allied air forces not only to a position of superiority, but of superiority in every area where fighting occurs.

Coal miners on Vancouver island have voted in favor of a war-time wages and bonus arrangement like that agreed upon by the miners and bituminous mine operators in Alberta. The lead is likely to be followed elsewhere, and in other lines of industry, as the advantages of the plan come to be studied.

Monday was the 25th anniversary of the sinking of the Lusitania and the drowning of 1,198 persons. That was the greatest "victory"' achieved by Von Tirpitz' U-boats in the former war. Admiral Raeder's submarines have done nothing to rival it during the present war, though not for want of trying. The sinking of the Athenia acquits the Nazis of any charge that they are "soft" in comparison to the older generation of sea assassins. Early adoption of the convoy system has crimped their style.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Taken by and large I'm a supporter of the Civil Liberties League. I resent society—which might do so much to make life easy for all—poking its nose into matters of individual opinion. It's absurd on the face of it for society to interfere with the opinion of the individual, since in the nature of things, advancement in ideas is to be found in the individual, and never in the mass. But in coming to the aid of Paul Satko, the unemployed Virginian who has been halted by the law from taking his wife and seven children to Alaska in a home-designed and home-built craft called The Ark, the Civil Liberties League is defending the liberty of a well-meaning but unskilled man to place the lives of his dependents in danger.

WHEN LIBERTY IS DANGEROUS

I saw a photo of Satko's "Ark" the other day, and the craft is manifestly top-heavy. Though most of the journey can be made by the "inner passage," the danger of the trip is more than that of sunken reefs and mischievous tide-rips.

I join my voice with the 20,000 well-wishers, for the courage and commonsense of an unemployed man in moving to a place where Nature supplies fish, fuel, fruit and venison in abundance, and where work is more likely to be obtained. But the folk who are backing Mr. Satko and his brood don't know the hazards the poor fellow would meet in his unseaworthy craft.

I've done a bit of coastal cruising myself, and hope to do a great deal more, but I wouldn't venture my life in Mr. Satko's Ark. I've seen the Gulf of Georgia when the C.P.R. steamer from Nanaimo wouldn't risk a crossing, much less the open waters of Millbank and Queen Charlotte

THE FURY OF THE SEA

Sound and Dixon's Entrance. On such a much more seaworthy craft than the Ark I had an experience in Johnstone Strait a couple of years ago that tried my nerve.

I'd made a good trip up the coast with an English friend, taking Euclataw Rapids, Green Point Rapids and Whirlpool Rapids on an ebb that ran us through the 40 miles of seething water. There's a trick to it. You time yourself to bear up against the flood time to reach the whirlpool near the entrance to the Euclataws at the turn of the tide, running through Euclataw Rapids with the ebb, taking Green Point Rapids with a sharp right angle turn on the strength of the ebb, and running Whirlpool Rapids at the low water slack. It's a thrilling run, and my friend was so elated he wanted to push on.

We reached Johnstone Strait in the teeth of a westerly that had 400 miles of a straight blow behind it. The boat jumped so in the seas that it flung the running lights out of their sockets as we dived into the rollers. To have attempted to turn back would have been fatal. We'd have rolled over and over in the seas. I was about to slow down the engine so that the seas would drive us back to lead in there, when a shipping steerage way, when I sighted a small island about five miles ahead. It took us a couple of hours to reach the lee of the island where we anchored for the night and repaired damage. It's a little story of what this well-meaning chap might run into at a score of places, with his top-heavy Ark and his wife and seven children. His 20,000 supporters might better chip in a nickle apiece and send them by steamer to Alaska.

The strike of the gasoline companies in British Columbia, forced with an order to reduce prices a cent a gallon, is a reminder that in these days the business of selling gasoline is one that should be in the hands of the government. Not, of course, to sell at double or treble the fair market price as they do with liquor, but to ensure that the power - using public gets gasoline at a reasonable price. What a fair price is for gasoline I do not know. A judge in B.C. who conducted a lengthy and expensive enquiry says present prices are 6 cents or more too high. The vending companies—subsidiaries of the big producers—are so organized that according to their books they sell at a loss. They are quite content to prosper on their losses, but resent the order to cut prices by a cent.

Producers in California have offered to supply the city of Vancouver with refined gasoline at a price that would allow it to be sold at 24 cents a gallon—the price ordered by the government Fuel Board.

Alberta may be facing a similar situation before long. If strikes are to tie up gasoline transportation, here's a chance to instal producer gas equipment on cars and trucks, making one's own fuel from charcoal and water at a price equal to seven cent gasoline. A contraption like a small drum on the running board don't add to the beauty of a car, but a car that will run cheaply without leave of the gasoline companies, will be better than a stream-lined creation in the garage that can't run for lack of fuel.

Religion Day By Day

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

THE BIG FAMILY

In Egypt I heard of the death of an American acquaintance, who had amassed a fortune by dealing in antiquities. He died without leaving a will, and there was no evidence that he had anywhere in the world a relative to inherit his money. After long search, some distant cousins were discovered, who had probably never heard of the existence of their benefactor.

That incident starts thoughts of the varied advantages of belonging to a big family. Quickly the mind leaps to musings upon the largest family of all—the kinfolk of Christ, "For whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother."

What a family! Consider the family likeness, and loyalty, and love, and all the ways in which it is blessing the world, while knowing the joy of fellowship. This is the world's "leading family"; and it alone can lead the way out of the world's present morass.

That we are members of the household of faith; members one of another, and members of Jesus Christ, is our ground of thanksgiving today, O Father in heaven. Amen.

Read Mark 4:31-35.

Current Comment

But There Comes a Time

Reports have been filtering into Paris recently which indicate that the Nazis in conquered and shell-torn Warsaw are pursuing a vigorous offensive against Polish intellectuals—against lawyers and doctors and educators and clergymen and engineers. These people just disappear from their homes. It is difficult to tell precisely what happens to them. Concentration camps for some; death for others.

To guard against uprisings of an unhappy, captive people, conquerors have always acted thus, eradicating all possible leaders of revolutionary movements. What conquerors forget is that a righteous cause will generate its own leadership. No tyrant, however strong, has ever been able to hold an unwilling nation under his thumb for very long.—Victoria Times.

Norway

It is easy to feel very gloomy about developments in Norway. It is also easy to feel bitterly critical.

But in the light of long range calculations and sober reflection there is little real justification for indulging in either of these emotions.

That the withdrawal of Allied forces from the vital Trondheim area represents a setback is of course true. It would be both foolish and futile to try to explain it otherwise. But it is not a mortal blow, even to the Allied campaign in Norway. In the important northern section where control of the iron ore resources and shipping bases is the issue, the Allies are pressing steadily forward, and will be able to fight with all the more vigor now that they have withdrawn from the dangerously exposed Trondheim area.

Mr. R. W. Keyserlingk, general manager in Canada, for the British United Press, expressed this point very cogently in a Regina interview yesterday, when he correctly said:

"Scandinavia is an important factor in hostilities to date, but placed in the proper perspective of the gigantic struggle developing on all fronts, it is only incidental."

In other words, the Scandinavian phase of the war should be viewed and weighed relatively. In the first flush of Allied naval successes, it seemed possible that the way had been opened for an effective Allied thrust on the new flank. Hopes were expressed along this line which it now appears were unjustified, at least as far as any immediate action is concerned. —Regina Leader-Post.

How to Live—And Like It!

Advice from a doctor on how to live long is like his other prescriptions: if his orders are palatable we will submit to any sacrifice to obey them. Now comes Dr. Jean Besancon of Paris, who deserves attention because he has honorably reached the age of 80 in a cheerful frame of mind, and has in addition written a book dealing with longevity.

Don't drink water; take as little exercise as possible, and have an afternoon highball instead of tea, is his formula for long life as reported from Paris. It is painful when so much depends on Allied like-mindedness, to see a Frenchman attacking a sacred British institution. But it has long been suspected that the French did not feel the same reverence for tea as did the British. Now at least the rift is out in the open, and it only remains to be seen whether a strongly anti-British sentiment on this delicate issue will develop among the neutrals.

After all, like no effort at all, "Make no effort at all, otherwise you will strain your heart." Many an oldster who is comfortably adding to his life span in the leathery depths of a club chair will nod sagely at this injunction and follow it as scripture. But there will be as many more to snort indignantly and start for the golf course. Some of our healthiest old-timers have been refusing for years to take things easy. An athletic scholar named Phelps of Yale, who is still lively at 75, gave baseball at 45 because it was getting a bit strenuous. He tapered off by playing tennis, which he continued until he was 70. His friend Henry Ford, whose line is automobiles, long persisted in the unhealthful habit of dog-trotting for a mile at 6 a.m. to start off his busy days. He is still around and about at 76. Probably they have shortened their lives from a possible 150 years to 125. But they seem to have had an excellent time doing it.—New York Times.

One hundred and ten years ago today the first Montreal harbor commission was named. It was an important epoch not only for that port but also for the whole of Canada since it marked the real beginning of the deepening of the St. Lawrence channel and of making Montreal a national seaport, linked up to the canal system since evolved which now provides the waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

The legislature of the Province of Canada passed a bill for "the betterment and growth of the harbor of Montreal" and on May 8, 1830, the first harbor trust commissioners were appointed: Hon. George Moffat, Jules Quesnel and Captain R. S. Piper, R.E. According to the admirable "History of the Harbor of Montreal," by Dr. W. H. Atherton, improvements began at once, following plans prepared by Captain Piper and Peter Fleming. The deepening of the channel which followed prepared the way for Montreal's supremacy as a port, and enabled much shipping which had previously stopped at Quebec to ascend to Montreal, especially after the coming of the first steamship, the Genova, in 1853.

The real "Father of the Port of Montreal" was Peter Fleming, who had great foresight, had urged transportation improvement upon the great Earl of Elgin, and was himself chairman of the harbor commission 1853-1878. The centenary of the Port of Montreal was marked by the opening of the Montreal harbor bridge in 1930, later changed to the Jacques Cartier bridge. The commission continued until 1931 when all the harbor commissions were abolished and the operation of the ports entrusted to the national harbors boards, so that the original Montreal harbor commission functioned for just a little over a century, having brought to the port all but the largest of ocean steamships and made Montreal the greatest grain shipping port in the world.

Pete Says Thanks

Editor, Bulletin: I wish to express my sincere gratitude and thanks for the interest taken in me when recently I was a patient in the University Hospital, Military Wing; for flowers sent by the Army and Navy Veterans Club, by the Edmonton Fusiliers (my old regiment) and by the Old-Timers' Association; for inquiries, visits and messages from all the military organizations and units, and from many others; all were and are much appreciated.

Regarding my treatment and attention from the hospital staff I can only say that they never lost an opportunity trying to kill me with kindness.

The words which you say to yourself while thinking have a profound effect upon you. When you are carrying on what might be compared to a "talking picture" run off by the mind.

Your thinking is done in a series of pictures, which pictures are brought into the mind by words with which you are familiar. What you are depends to a large extent upon the kind of mental talking pictures which you call forth.

The person who is constantly holding before the mind certain disease conditions suggested by words describing disease should not be surprised when these unhealthy words are reflected in an unhealthy physical condition. Some of the words most familiar to you are words having to do with disease, all of which call up pictures of unpleasant conditions. You will identify the pictures according to the words you use.

For example, "tonsillitis" brings up a certain kind of picture, and "stroke" a totally different picture. "Weak" brings up a certain kind of picture, and "strong" brings up an entirely different picture, which is the direct opposite.

The memory part of the mind or the unconscious phase, can think only with whatever material it has been given during the past experience. The more you dwell upon unpleasant pictures the stronger you make the tendency to express unpleasantness. Moreover, the more you dwell upon the pleasant pictures through using words which call them forth, the stronger you make the tendency to express pleasantness.

The sum total of your mental powers depends largely upon the kind of pictures you evoke most frequently. The common sense thing to do is to be careful to use good words with which to direct the mental processes along the line of wholesome talking pictures. Cultivate those words which call mind pictures of yourself as being strong and healthy. Build yourself a wealth of good mental talkies which will help you to express that state which we call health.

Learn to dwell upon, again and again, such words to think about. These constructive words will have a great deal of power over you.

Many a man has talked himself into sickness and failure when it would have been just as easy to talk himself into success and health. Identify the words and you who have been outstanding successes have known how to talk to themselves, perhaps they did not understand the process, but it worked for them just the same without their understanding it. Through happy accident, they formed the habit of using positive words calling forth positive pictures and these words worked a kind of magic for them which made them confident and serene.

Find good words for yourself and keep on dwelling upon them until you get the positive benefits which will follow.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

I have often said, and want to repeat again, that the gap between the expert and the average player is growing smaller each year — not that the expert is becoming poorer, but the average player is stepping to think a little and as a result, finds that it is not difficult to play expert bridge.

The average declarer on today's hand would complain of his hard luck at finding five trumps bunched in the West hand, and it does look as if at least two trump tricks must be lost, but with a little common sense we can play the hand as follows.

The opening diamond lead is won with the ace. We lead a small spade, cash the ace and play the spade king, only to learn that East is out.

We know we cannot cash the queen of spades and that would set up the jack and seven-spot for West, but we might get an end-play that would force West to lead from the jack-seven into the queen-ten. We also know that it all depends upon the location of the king of hearts and whether the hearts and clubs are divided three-three.

So we lead a small club to dummy and win with the queen, then play the jack of hearts. If East fails to cover, we let it ride and continue with the ten of hearts. If East again does not cover, we lead a small diamond and ruff with the six of spades.

We cash the ace of clubs and lead another heart. This time East must play the king and we win with the ace and cash the king of clubs.

Now we hold nothing but the queen-ten of spades and a heart, while West has the jack-seven-five of spades. Lead the heart and West must trump and is forced to lead into the queen-ten.

GRANDE PRAIRIE

NORTH CHURCH ANNIVERSARY TO BE MARKED

The twenty-fifth anniversary of Christ church, Anglican, in Grande Prairie, will be celebrated in the new cathedral on May 25 and 26. Started in 1914, the first building of Christ church was officially opened on May 30, 1915, by Rev. Canon Smith, assisted by Rev. Hugh Speke. The congregation then numbered 49. Bishop Robbins of Peace River consecrated the building, assisted by Rev. J. W. McDonald, Rev. H. Holmes and Rev. F. W. Abbott.

In 1922 the original rectory, a log building, was moved to the hospital grounds and used for some years as a nurses' residence. In 1925, the widow of Rev. Speke, who had been killed in action, donated a sum of money for a memorial and this was used to build the Speke Hall, which is still in use. Last fall the old church was removed and a new building was erected.

The Diocesan A.Y.P.A. will meet following the anniversary services.

Moods and sentiments of the special days in spring, summer and fall were delightfully portrayed in the Ballet of the Seasons, a dance presentation staged by the Valerie Ellwood School of the Dance on Friday night. Appropriately costumed, pupils ranging in age from two to 20, took part in solo numbers and in group ensembles in this clever sequence of folk, ballet, tap and novelty dances which made up the program.

Eleven-year-old Muriel Sharpe gave acrobatic performances. Several of the ensembles were outstanding, particularly the intermediates in their Autumn Dance, and the Skaters and the Egyptian and Spanish dances. The Danube waltz was presented by Rhoda Patterson and Jean Turner. The Flame dance by Edna Heller was well executed.

As New Year, Easter Bunnies, chicks, lambs, mermaids and wedding principals, the tiny tots were a riot wherever they appeared. Miss Ellwood entertained with dramatic number, Kuolema, which was an artistic triumph.

COLD LAKE

Last Friday the High School Students' Union sponsored a social evening as a suitable closing for the year prior to the examinations.

Parents and friends of the students were invited. The program consisted of community singing; several songs rendered by the music class, a "quizz" contest and a comic recitation.

In a debate, "Resolved, that cooperation is preferable to competition in marketing," the affirmative side was upheld by, Greta Lund, Doris Strayer and William Cunningham, while the contest Reid, Marguerite Jones, and Fabian Milaney upheld the negative. The judges gave the decision as a draw. Marguerite Jones, and Fabian

Lunch was served, followed by a dance.

Stuck To His Post

"He just wouldn't leave his ship," Chief Engineer Fred Gilbert said of Captain Fred Burke, above, as he recounted the sinking of the freighter, Arlington, which foundered during a heavy storm in Lake Superior. All of others aboard the Arlington were rescued by the freighter Collingwood.

PONOKA

A very interesting meeting and lecture sponsored by the Fort Ostell Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held here recently. The principal speaker was Mrs. Garry Phillips, who has been studying the work of the Mother Craft Society of Toronto. Mrs. Phillips is a graduate of the Provincial Mental Hospital School of Nursing.

The chairman, Mrs. A. Easles, said in her opening address, that the high rate of infant mortality in the Dominion showed the great need of child welfare work. Mrs. J. O'Brien gave a short talk which dealt with the psychological side of child training.

Musical selections were given by Mrs. J. C. Matheson accompanied by Mrs. R. Parker.

BOWDEN

The Ministerial Fellowship met in St. Andrew's United Church hall, Bowden, on Monday afternoon. Ministers attending from all the different towns were: Rev. Fawcett, Rev. Currie, Rev. Hunt, Rev. Pike, Rev. Schultz, Rev. Whitmore, Rev. Rylius and Rev. Chapman. Rev. S. H. Hunt, B.A., B.D., of Crossfield led in a discussion on The Madras Conference.

TROCHU

Trochu is to have classes for the instruction of women drivers and mechanics with the idea that they may be able to serve their country driving motor cars. Quite a number have already signed up for the classes and are expected to start as soon as further applications are received. The class will be instructed by mechanics from the Ford Garage here.

MUNDARE

Anton Gariya of Castor was brought to Mundare general hospital with two fractured ribs and body bruises following a level crossing accident. His car stalled on the railroad track and was struck by a westbound freight, Tuesday afternoon. The car was knocked against the railroad property fence 20 feet away. Gariya was the only occupant.

BREMNER

Frank Latam has taken over the Bremner mail route from Mr. V. S. Foster.

Adult male eagles are smaller than the females.

FAIRVIEW

Elks Lodge Holds Fairview Meeting; Organizer Attends

A special meeting of the Elks Lodge, Fairview, was held in the Gem theatre May 6 when P. A. Miquelon, Dominion Grand Organizer of the B.P.O.E. was an official guest. About 60 members and wives attended the banquet and dance, held in honor of the organizer's visit.

Mr. Miquelon addressed the meeting and inspected the aims of the Elks' lodge and the work being done throughout the Dominion.

The meet was terminated by a musical comedy tap dancing team, of Ari Nugent and Ray Proctor of Peace River. Miss Nugent is the niece of Vera Guthrie and E. McAdams of Fairview. Toasts to the King were given. Fairview's 1940 Elks lodge officers are C. S. Cairgran, Exalted Ruler; K. McConnell, leading knight; J. Murray, loyal knight; L. Peterson, limping knight; C. Johnson (Bluesky), inner guard; Bernard Gant, tyler; Past Exalted Ruler E. Gaudry, treasurer; P. Grandy, secretary; Alex McMillan, I. Phalepin (Bluesky), Oscar Johnson and Jack Telfer, trustees.

The regular business meeting of the Red Cross was held Monday. The membership has reached the total of 38. Red Cross collection boxes, comprising donations from merchants and settled a total of $7.84. Buy Bees, girls' organization of Vanrena, donated $10. The proceeds from the play "One Mad Night" will net around $60.

The Red Cross April shipment to headquarters was a record one. The following are the items sent: 60 sweaters, 48 pairs of socks, 24 pairs of wristlets, 12 personal property bags, 6 pneumonia jackets, 24 surgical towels, 24 triangular bandages and 36 hot water bottle covers.

VILNA

On Saturday afternoon the Vilna Boy Scouts conducted a successful chicken shoot for the Vilna Education Society. The proceeds are to be used in the construction of a camp shelter on the projected 2-mile campsite at Long Lake. The shoot was featured by remarkably keen shooting with Scoutmaster Hugh and Gordon Kay coming out as top winners.

Tenders Called For Development Of South Airport

CALGARY, May 8—Tenders have been called for additional development of the Lethbridge municipal airport by the department of transport, Ottawa, it was learned here yesterday. The airport will be used in connection with the empire air training scheme.

Clerk Of Commons Works At Top Speed To Prepare For Opening On May 16

OTTAWA, May 8—In the midst of the hustle and bustle that customarily precedes the opening of a new parliamentary session, Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, clerk of the House of Commons, works at top speed these days to put things in order for the May 16 opening.

His job is running the big gray building on Parliament Hill. He looks after the needs of the members of the Commons and shares the heavy work with L. Clare Moyer, clerk of the Senate, who cares for members of the red chamber.

HAS BIGGEST CHANGE

The upper house will have 14, perhaps 15, new faces on opening day for many senate vacancies have been filled since the old parliament was dissolved last Jan. 25 but the greatest change will be in the Commons.

Among the 245 members of the Commons 82 are newcomers as a result of the March 26 elections. Four others have returned in the by-election chamber after absences. All members must be sworn in before the throne again and the new senators will take their oath of allegiance on opening day.

That is only a minor part of the session rush, said Dr. Beauchesne, who holds a deputy minister's rank in the government service. "I shall notify each member of the date and time of the opening and send each a copy of the proclamation.

"Also I must write defeated members to turn in their railway passes, notify railways of cancelled passes and make out and issue new passes."

ARRANGES SEATING, ROOMS

A committee of four cabinet ministers arranges the seating of members in the house and assigns them private rooms in the parliament buildings. Dr. Beauchesne is secretary of the committee with this ticklish job.

Each day hundreds of applications pass before the clerk of the commons from those seeking positions on the sessional staff of the house or from persons requesting sessional passes to the official spectators' galleries.

In addition the house staff, running to some 500 when parliament is in session, must be supervised. The house restaurant and cafeteria must be staffed and stocked and with food, page boys must be appointed, together with a host of stenographers and attendants and cleaners must be engaged.

Dr. Beauchesne has three shifts of cleaners working daily, keeping tidy the granite home of Canada's parliament.

Judge In Hospital

OTTAWA, May 8.—Mr. Justice Harry A. Bird of the Exchequer Court of Canada Tuesday underwent what was described as a "major operation."

Visited In Edmonton

Miss Gladys Collard of Saskatoon and her great uncle, Mr. Robert Gordon, who had not seen each other for many years are pictured above during Miss Collard's brief visit in the city on Tuesday en route to Kobe, Japan, to accept a position as nurse in the International hospital. The picture was taken at the home of Miss Collard's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest N. Smith.

Miss Margaret Hockin Of Japan Is Honored Guest At Y. W. Campfire Night On Tuesday

HEARING of Y.W.C.A. work among girls and young women in Japan, and finding that the program of fellowship, study and growth is very closely related to that of their own, more than 100 girls, members of the Y.W. clubs, foregathered for a colorful Campfire Night entertainment in the "Y" building on Tuesday evening, when Miss Margaret Hockin of Tokyo, their guest, spoke to them.

Miss Pat Scott presided at the firelighting ceremony, which was followed by a lively sing song led by Miss Pauline Seller.

Members of the Omega Chi presented a humorous skit, and blue and silver "Y" pins were presented to Alyce Harris and Katherine Wyatt, prize winners in the song contest, and to Ina Schell, who won a quizz contest based on Y.W.C.A. work.

Miss Hockin told the girls present that similar programs of gymnasium, club and social interests form the basis of Y.W.C.A. work in Tokyo, where she is stationed.

Christ Church W.A. Members Plan Tea

Home of Mrs. G. R. Scott, 11930 100 avenue, will be the scene of a May tea on Friday, between the afternoon hours of three and six o'clock, when members of the Christ church W.A. will entertain.

Receiving the guests with Mrs. Scott will be Mrs. G. P. Gower and Mrs. H. Gutteridge.

Presiding at the tea-table which will be centred with a miniature May-pole and tiny dancing figures, will be Mrs. W. B. Chamberlain, Mrs. S. J. Tuckaberry, Mrs. W. McNab and Mrs. M. J. Brodie. Assisting as serviteurs will be Mrs. Cecil Sutherland, Mrs. M. L. Ferguson, Mrs. F. J. Higgins and Mrs. A. B. McCurdy.

In charge of the home cooking table will be Mrs. F. W. Timleck and Mrs. M. Duffy.

Arrangements for the affair, for which a special invitation is being extended to life members of the W.A., are in the hands of Mrs. R. H. Driscoll and Mrs. D. A. Kirkland.

I.O.D.E. Unit Members To Entertain At Tea At Home Of Regent

Plans for the annual chapter tea at which members of the Fort Augustus chapter, I.O.D.E. will entertain at the home of their regent, Mrs. T. W. Gofield, 9832 113 street on Wednesday, May 29 are under way, and further plans discussed at meeting in the chapter room this week.

The affair will be held from three o'clock until seven. During the evening a donation was made in support of the Alberta Maternity Fund, and knitted articles for soldiers' comforts were turned over to the convener of war work. Mrs. Cogland presided at the meeting.

Miss M. F. Legate of Regina, Saskatchewan, former supervisor of public schools in that city and now Canadian national superintendent of scientific education for the Canadian W.C.T.U., has left for Calgary and Banff after visiting in Edmonton, with Miss Bertha Rachel Palmer of Evanston, Ill. Miss Legate will meet Miss Palmer later at Vancouver from where they will continue their tour together. While in Edmonton, Miss Legate was the guest of Mrs. A. E. Wright and Miss Elsie Wright.

Today's Popular Design

By CAROL AIMES

DESIGN NO. 334—EFFECTIVE WALL-PANEL

"East or West, Home's Best," truly an appropriate phrase to decorate a pretty nursery. Use delft blue or cornflower blue linen for the background and work the flowers, trees, cottage and lettering either in the colors suggested on the pattern or in shades which you yourself will blend to carry out the color scheme of the room in which the picture is to be hung. It will lend a cheering, homey atmosphere to a hall; is ideal near a fireplace or a living room chair and is most appropriate for a young boy's or young girl's room. This is one of those pretty pieces which become more and more cherished in a happy home as the years go by. Only simple stitches which are quick to work have been used throughout.

The pattern includes transfer of the design, complete instructions for embroidering and finishing, color suggestions as well as detail chart of stitches used.

To order this pattern, write your name and address on a piece of paper and send with 15 cents in coin to Needlework Department, The Edmonton Bulletin, Edmonton, Alberta.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

MISS MARY DILLON

who will receive a degree in Household Economics at Convocation exercises. Of Brooks, Alberta, Miss Dillon is vice-president and social convener of the senior class at the University and has been active in extra-curricular activities. Yesterday's will receive degrees in Household Economics. She is a member of Delta Gamma fraternity.

MISS GRACE EGLESTON

who next week will receive her B.A. degree in Arts after varied activity in student affairs at the University of Alberta during the past few years. Honored by being chosen as Class Historian for this year's graduating class, Miss Egleston is president of the Wauneita society and is on the executive of the Students' council. She is a member of Delta Gamma fraternity and will return from her home in Calgary on Wednesday for graduation functions.

Girl Graduates Of U. Choose Many Careers

REFLECTION of the varied professions which women are choosing to enter, ranging from agriculture to medicine, is seen in the graduation results for co-eds at the University of Alberta. Each year a few more names are added to the role of women who are already making a name for themselves in the career world and Convocation exercises of the University of Alberta on Tuesday will see the graduation of three women in medicine, one in agriculture three in pharmacy, four in commerce, 26 in household economics, seven with B.Sc. in Arts and over 40 with B.A. in Arts. No woman is graduating in law this year, although Miss Hope McQueen of Edmonton is receiving her B.A. degree and will continue towards a degree in law next term. She is the only girl in the class.

COMMERCE

In the faculty of commerce Miss Rose McDonald (upper left) is receiving her Bachelor of Commerce degree. The only Edmonton girl to graduate in commerce, Miss McDonald has as her co-ed class associates Miss Wilfreda Courtney of Calgary, Miss Leila Scott of Vermillion and Miss Helen Stone of Vanderhoof, B.C.

Miss Anathalie Heath, B.A., of Edmonton (centre) will receive her M.D. degree while other women will graduate in medicine are Miss Effie Dunn, B.A., also of Edmonton and Miss Violet Larsen. During her years at Varsity Miss Heath has taken an active part in student affairs and is a past president of the Wauneita society.

AGRICULTURE

Following in the footsteps of her father Mr. S. G. Carlyle of North Edmonton, who is well known in the field of agriculture and her brothers who have previously received similar degrees from the University of Alberta, Miss Marion Carlyle (upper right) will this year graduate from the faculty of agriculture. Miss Carlyle is the lone co-ed to receive such a degree. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta fraternity.

Co-eds who will receive degrees in pharmacy are: Miss Dorothy Wickett Turner Valley, Miss Winona Turner of Berens and Miss Patricia Wyld of Macleod.

JASPER JOTTINGS

By FAY PARKER

JASPER, May 8—A small army of workmen are busily engaged at Jasper Park Lodge getting ready for the opening date, June 15. Many of the guests will arrive this year over the new highway across the Athabasca. Advance reservations at the Lodge already assure the greatest season in history for this popular holiday resort.

An ever-increasing number of ducks are finding Jasper Park an ideal nesting place. Those wild fowl and many others return year after year to rear their young in this sanctuary. There is hardly a lake or small pool that has not at least a pair of water birds, swimming contentedly on its waters.

The particular pride of Jasper is the nineteen soldiers who are serving in the army and navy from Canada, and to see that they are always remembered by the home-folks, a gift parcel is dispatches each month to each of these centres in Canada and also in England. This is the work of the Jasper Soldiers' Fund and the money to carry out this patriotic endeavor is raised by draws and by donations.

That the beauties of Jasper Park will become familiar to the eyes of Great Britain is shortly to be assured. For, last week three members of an English film company were visitors en route to the coast Michael Powell, Emeric Pressberger and Roland Gillett of London, England, will return to film the opening ceremonies of the Jasper-Banff highway on July 1. This will be incorporated in a movie of Canadian activities and Canadian scenery to appear in cinemas abroad.

Mr. F. J. Reynolds, manager of the Edmonton City Dairy, spent last weekend in Jasper.

The Guides and Brownies will hold a "Mother's Day Tea" on Saturday afternoon in the Parish hall in aid of the war funds for the Canadian Guides and Brownies, an air ambulance to be presented to the R.C.A.F.

U.S. Minister Holds Ottawa Garden Party

OTTAWA, May 8.—The James H. R. Cromwells greeted official and social Ottawa at a "big stop" on Tuesday for the first time and probably for the last. The United States minister to Canada and Mrs. Cromwell held a garden party on the spacious lawns of the legation residence in fashionable Rockcliff Park.

A cold wind sweeping off the Ottawa river kept most of the 500 or more guests inside a huge marquee which was set up on the lawn in front of the residence.

LEAVE NEXT WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. Cromwell plan to leave sometime next week for New Jersey where Mr. Cromwell is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator on May 21. Mr. Cromwell already has announced his resignation as minister, to take effect on that date.

Mrs. Cromwell, who wore a cape of Canadian fox fur over a blue striped white dress and white flowered hat with a graceful veil extending to the back, expressed "deep regret" at leaving Canada. Mr. Cromwell also said he was sorry to leave.

Do Words Desert You? Know Ordinal Phrases

Win Friends Wherever You Are

On dates, parties, looking for a job, do you trust to luck to say the right thing—and then at the crucial moment find that words desert you?

Lay in a store of apt, gracious phrases and you'll never lack poise on any occasion.

Give that special man a glowing welcome when he calls. Say, "I'm so glad to see you!" or "My, you're looking splendid!" And keep him talking happily with your pert, appreciative comments. "How clever of you!" "Do you really think so?"

After a party, an enthusiastic "I had such a lovely time!" is likely to win another invitation from your hostess.

Over the telephone—no flounder-ing "Well uh—" Be ready with a polite, efficient "He isn't here just now. Would you care to leave a message?"

And how much easier to cinch that job if the right words come readily to your tongue: "The work sounds interesting. I'd like to do it."

You'll find a whole stock of such pleasing phrases in our 32-page booklet. Tells what to say on many occasions; has lively word combinations, expressions to give your talk interest, color.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Effective Phrases for All Occasions" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, Edmonton, Alberta. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

Bulletin Patterns

Here is a dress so smart and so easy to make that your young daughter will want to sew it up herself. Choose a pin striped or plain cotton for wearability and chic. Trim with contrasting bands and collar for a gay youthful touch and she will have a dress as sweet and young as she is. Three simple pieces make this one piece dress with cap sleeves so that you can put it together in a jiffy. Just right for school or play this spring and summer.

Style No. 3251 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 35-inch material; ⅝ yards of contrasting.

Send 15 cents in coin for pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size you wish. Address Pattern Department, The Edmonton Bulletin, Edmonton, Alberta.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

The New Spring Fashion Book is a "must" for a smart wardrobe. The full color illustrations of over a hundred styles will help you select your clothes for all occasions. Send for your copy today. The price is 15 cents.

Dorothy Dix Says:

It would seem that marriage is the place of all others in the world where truth should do its great and perfect work, and that no other two people should be as honest and candid with each other as husband and wives. Perhaps this is the dream of every young couple who enter the holy estate and who think how restful and peaceful it is going to be to have some one before whom they will not have to be constantly putting on an act. But alas, the great majority of the newlyweds soon discover that TRUTH is not one of the household gods. It is TNT that has to be handled with care and discretion and in small quantities, or else it will explode and blow up a marriage to Kingdom Come.

What's the use, a man thinks. In telling his wife that he stayed downtown and played poker with the boys and that he let himself in for a blistering lecture on the sin of gambling, when everything will be ducky if he only says that he was detained at the office on important business.

And why, says a wife to herself, should I tell my husband that my new hat cost $25 and have him be rude to me for my extravagance, when I will get a pat on the back if I lead him to believe that it is a little number that I picked up for almost nothing on a bargain table?

Certainly all husbands and wives would prefer to be perfectly candid with their mates, for it takes time, tact, ingenuity and a good memory to concoct even a fairly plausible yarn and make it stick.

But they dare not do it. There is too much danger of starting something.

Now this fear of the truth that most married couples have in the bottom of many divorces for it keeps husbands and wives from ever being honest with each other and thrashing out their grievances in the open and thus be given a chance to correct what is ever fault it was that got on the other's nerves.

Half the men in the world don't know why the gay, sweet girls they married have turned into sour and disgruntled women. And nine-tenths of the deserted wives spend their time beating on their breasts trying to guess why their husbands lost their taste for them.

The man doesn't tell his wife that the reason he lost his affection for her was because she had got slovenly and dull, and that the reason he no longer kissed her was because he didn't like the taste of cold cream.

The woman doesn't tell her husband that what's killed love's young dream for her is that she may his neck and that when he gargles his mess.

On The Record

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The Tragic Dilemma Of Hungary—I.

BUDAPEST — Here in eastern Europe one is constantly struck with the discrepancy between the outward appearance of things and realities. No casual visitor to Budapest, for instance, could read from the aspect of things the terrible strain under which this capital lives.

D. Thompson

It is, to my mind, one of the most enchanting cities of Europe. This year the spring has come early. The acacia trees that line the famous Corso along the Danube, that flows through the very center of the city, are in leaf in the most delicate green, and the cafe tables, painted green and white, and covered with flowered cloths, are already set out under them in front of the big hotels and famous restaurants.

Girls and young men in spring clothes, with the elegant, well-groomed look characteristic of Budapest, are drinking coffee with whipped cream and eating rich cakes and butter. But perhaps it is not coffee that we are drinking, though it tastes like it. In the shops it costs $3 a pound and is strictly rationed, and the disparity between the cost of coffee in a cup in a cafe and its cost in the shops is another of the things I have been unable to understand.

But the butter and the cream are certainly real, and so are the luscious little iced cakes and the ingredients of a three-course meal which my neighbor is having served to him under the trees.

"In Vienna," says my Hungarian companion casually, "there is no whipped cream, no cake, and the butter ration for a week is just three times the size of this pat here. I was there last week. They are beginning to hate us for all the things we are able to eat here in Hungary—just as they did in the last war, in spite of the fact that we were allies of Germany."

She gets up to go. "Now you must come out to the Margit Island and see how wonderfully it has been improved since you were here last."

We join others in a little car. "It's German. Practically all our cars are German. Some Italian, of course. The others are in exchange, so we must get them through the clearing agreements."

As we spin out to the famous island park that lies like a separate summer resort with its gardens, hotels, pavilions, restaurants, tennis courts and bathing beaches right in the heart of a big city, we pass rows of new apartment houses. The palaces on the Buda hill are the same as they were, and no one could improve its handsome and dramatic aspects, but the rest of the city showed signs of recent economic activities. "Its all stopped since the war," says one of the party, "it seems to me that we were just getting out of the troubles of the last twenty years when the war began.

I've known this country for twenty years—many of them years of sheer tragedy, years in which a nation struggled up from complete frustration to the condition of relative prosperity which it is in today. No nation suffered more cruelly from the last war than Hungary. If there is any country in eastern Europe whose sympathies would naturally be with the German war party, The Treaty of Versailles never began to do what the peace treaties did to Hungary. The fall of the Hapsburg monarchy gave rise to Count Michael Karolyi's government of men of good will, who believed the Fourteen Points of Woodrow Wilson. They went to Belgrade to receive from the hands of General Franchet D'Esperey a Carthaginian peace that took away two-thirds of the ancient Hungarian kingdom, and as an indirect result delivered the country over, in a few months, to the unspeakable terror of Bela Kun and to the occupation of a roaming Rumanian army. From this condition of affairs Hungary was freed by an admiral on horseback, Nicholas Horthy. The red terror was followed by a white terror, which, like the red one, was often indiscriminate. Within another year the attempt of the Hapsburg Emperor to regain his throne in Budapest again brought the nation to the very verge of war.

When I went first to Hungary in 1920 there were no more than 300 national monuments in the entire country; there are 10,000 today. The hospitals were crowded then with children suffering from a leprous condition of the skin that comes from starvation and dirt. Children are relatively healthy children in Hungary today. Suffering does not make people pleasant. Political hatreds went to the length of beastly cruelty. But Hungary became more and more tolerant, until the Nazi example started new intolerances.

Hungary was slowly recovering. She never reached that liberalism which the West preached to her, but she manifested the chief signs of political competence, dignity and sagacity; she kept to the legitimate government and to the traditional form of the state. The position of the crown was held by Admiral Horthy, who became Regent, and kept himself above politics. Strife Parliamentary government was maintained. During peace, Hungary made what was, under all these circumstances, a truly remarkable comeback, practically, economically and culturally.

A new youth was coming on who read the signs of the times. They discussed land reform and the modernization of a society which entered the last war essentially feudal. They had political leaders who were men of Western culture, and who in time and thought possessed the case of Hungary with a greater brilliance than that commanded by other national spokesmen. Although they rarely came to terms with the peace treaties, they showed willingness to postpone the decision while rebuilding the nation.

This war gives them the chance, perhaps, to right the wrongs done. Will they take it? Germany's victory in Czecho-Slovakia gave them back part of the old kingdom. Are they not grateful to Germany? Would not a victory of Germany against Rumania give them back the provinces they most passionately want returned—Transylvania? Is it possible that this methodical people have long been waiting for the hour of reckoning, would not welcome the opportunity to snatch, with Germany's assistance, what they sincerely believe belong to them?

The Hungarians are a dissatisfied nation and the core of a middle class liberal mentality like the Turks. Is it not obvious that they would welcome the unrolling of the whole question of the treaties and the chance to rewrite them with the assistance of German arms? Would they not, in the nature of things, be pro-Nazi?

These are the questions which were in my mind when I flew from Rumania to Budapest. I did not find a clear answer. I found, instead, a tragic dilemma. It is true that there is more pro-Nazi sentiment in Hungary than I have found in any eastern European nation. It is not sufficient explanation to say that Budapest is, since the conquest of Austria and Czecho-Slovakia, only at the very door of Germany, and that pressure upon her from the Third Reich is enormous. That is true and I shall write more about this later. But it is in the nature of the experience of the last twenty years that Hungary should have more sympathy for the Nazi struggle than any other Danubian nation that has won anything from it so far and that has the prospect of winning something more.

I believe that if Germany decides to move in eastern Europe and asks for a right of way across Hungary to Rumania she will get that right of way. If Hungary capitulates, however, it will be for more complicated reasons than those which motivated the capitulation of Denmark, namely, the military frontier is wide open to Germany. Nor would the Third Reich countenance for a moment its fortification.

But that would not be the only reason why Hungary would not resist. Hungary understands why the Poles made their quixotic resistance. Leading Hungarians say categorically that the Poles were right. The Hungarian mentality is much akin to the Polish, and not bourgeois and national. And Hungary did refuse a German request for a right of way when Germany asked for it in September during the campaign against the Poles.

But a campaign against Rumania would be a different kettle of fish. A sacrifice on Hungary's part which would, in any way, amount to a defence of Rumania would be almost impossible for any Hungarian government to ask of the nation.

Actually, the entrance of Germany into Hungary in a move against Rumania would be hailed by thousands of Hungarians. But it would not be hailed by a single responsible figure in Hungary, and I find this a most interesting fact. On the contrary, they looked upon the possibility with profound and pessimistic realism. One man, whose opinion is extremely important and who is accustomed to weigh his words, said to me, "I would consider it the greatest catastrophe for Hungary since the invasion and subjugation of Hungary by the Turks."

Hungary has a large German minority whose ancestors have lived on excellent terms with their Magyar neighbors for generations. But no country is in favor with its German minorities at present, for no one welcomes a Trojan horse. The spirit of Kossuth is very much alive in Hungary, and that spirit resented even the German Hapsburgs, who eventually accepted Hungary as an equal in the dual monarchy. Responsible Hungarian statesmen are under no illusion that the domination of the Danubian and eastern countries by Germany would eventually work out for the benefit of Hungary, however much it might added to her domain at the outset. "We do not want to become larger in order to be enslaved," said one man crisply.

Thus Hungary looks at Norway, and with great sympathy for that northern and western country thanks heaven that the blow struck there first. Meanwhile, her leaders weight the pros and cons of possible German move eastward and pray that their country will remain the territory that it claims, either by their own hands or far better, by reasonable compromise and with the consent and support of the public opinion of the world.

They are realistically distrustful of a gift that may be offered them—the hardest gift in the world to refuse. That is their trade dilemma.

What To Do

How can I best help my 6-year-old son to overcome a habit to sulk or cry when he cannot have his own way, or when he is denied something I have tried ignoring him, but have not been successful in breaking him of the habit.

ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Answer—Ignoring a child is useful when one feels that the child is playing for attention, but not otherwise. At an early age every child must begin to learn that no one can have everything he or she wants regardless of other persons and of surrounding circumstances, and to develop a resourcefulness in finding satisfying substitutes. When a child sulks he nurses his grievance which grows until it reaches large proportions in his own eyes. He then begins to feel abused and to look about for some one upon whom to pin the blame for his unhappiness. Only by helping your child to constructive ways of thinking and planning is he going to grow out of the habit of sulking. When denying your child's request try to suggest something that can be permitted. It will not be difficult to find a substitute if you help your child to plan his time so that he always has several things ahead to do. And it is important that the grown members of the family set an example by accepting disappointments cheerfully instead of rehashing them before the children.

Gay Nineties Dish Makes Tasty Dessert

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

In the spirit of the gay nineties, plan this menu for Mother's Day dinner: Clam bisque, baby lamb with fresh mint sauce, new peas, parsley potatoes, fresh asparagus with Hollandaise sauce, macaroon mousse, coffee.

Or for the special occasion in honor of mother, splurge a bit and make this still popular Gay Nineties dessert:

LALLA ROOKH PUNCH

(Ten to 12 Servings)

One quart heavy cream, 8 eggs, 1 cup sugar, ¼ cup brandy or non-alcoholic brandy flavoring, ¼ cup rum or non-alcoholic rum flavoring, ½ teaspoon grated nutmeg.

Beat egg yolks and whites separately. Put sugar and beaten egg yolks in a saucepan together. Cook gently, stirring until slightly thickened. Remove from heat and cool. Add brandy and rum or substitutes. Beat cream and fold in. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Mix in nutmeg. Pack in ice and salt and freeze. Mother will be delighted!

Here's a more simple surprise old-fashioned dessert for the Mother's Day feast. It's colorful and delicious and not difficult for young daughters to make.

RHUBARB AND PINEAPPLE MERINGUE

(Serves 6)

Two cups rhubarb, ¼ cup cubed pineapple, 2-3 cup sugar, 3-4 cup water, 6 slices buttered bread, 2 egg whites, few grains salt, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon lemon extract.

Wash and cut rhubarb. Add to sugar and water syrup and cook gently until tender. Add the pineapple cubes. Pour into a pudding dish lined with buttered bread. Top with meringue. Beat egg whites and salt until stiff. Gradually beat in sugar, add flavoring and bake for 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serve cold.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Sliced bananas, oatmeal muffins, marmalade, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Black bean soup, hard rolls, cabbage and apple salad, chocolate cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER (Mother's Day): Cream of minced clam soup in cups, roast chicken, mushroom stuffing, mashed potato fluff, new peas with mint, watercress salad, Lalla Rookh, coffee, milk.

Debunker

Many people believe that the Panama Canal, completed in 1914, was the first water connection between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans across Central America. But recent discoveries of old maps, found by workers of the WPA Historical Survey, show another canal dug in 1788. It was called the Canal of Raspadura, and was dug by a Spanish monk named Antonia de Cereso, assisted by Indian laborers. It was constructed to the south of the present Panama Canal, in what is now the northern boundary of Colombia, and it connected San Juan River (emptying into the Pacific) with a tributary of the Arato River (which empties into the Atlantic ocean through the Gulf of Darien). Indians carried cocao beans through the canal until it became clogged in 1852.

The plesiosaur, a reptile of prehistoric days, swam by means of four flippers and had the limbs, which it used as oars in rowing itself along.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, May 8. — Displaying a stronger tone, stocks, nevertheless, moved in comparatively light volume on Toronto exchange today.

Sherritt Gordon's 5-cent dividend lifted the price of that issue 7 to 90.

Eldorado faded to around 70 cents, off 10. Falconbridge, Hudson Bay and Base Metals Corporation were gainers. Noranda, Nickel and Smelters turned a bit heavy.

Imperial Oil at 13⅞ was ⅜ up and International Petroleum firmed ⅛ to 22. British American added ⅛. Okalta, Anglo-Canadian and Davies improved by a cent or two and Home Oil closed 3 down at 2.32. Brown weakened a cent.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 8—Rising tendencies in today's stock market centred mainly on steels and aviations, together with a handful of specialties.

Elsewhere many leaders exhibited apathy and top gains running to 2 points or so for favorites were marked down. Minor losses were well distributed.

Bethlehem Steel went into new high ground for the year. Up at one time or another were U.S. Steel, Boeing, United Aircraft, Eastern Air Lines, American Airlines, American Smelting, Loft, Bendix and Lockheed.

Newmont Mining stepped up when directors voted a 100 per cent stock dividend.

Among Canadian issues Dome Mines and Canadian Pacific improved fractions. McIntyre was easy while Distillers rested stationary. Canada 4s, in the bond market dipped ¾.

NAVY'S VALUE DEFENDED BY CHAS. EDISON

U.S. Secretary Declares Nazis Cannot Damage British Fleet

WASHINGTON, May 8—Vigorous defence of the battleship, as opposed to aircraft, was voiced yesterday by Charles Edison, United States secretary of the navy, together with a prediction German planes would prove incapable of destroying or damaging seriously the British fleet.

He told the senate naval committee: "Battleships were, are and will be for some time to come the backbone of our first line of national defence."

NO PROPER COMPARISON

Edison attributed Allied naval losses to aircraft in Scandinavian waters to the fact Allied vessels were operating in narrow fjords and channels against land-based aircraft and did not have sufficient support from Allied planes.

(Four Allied destroyers have been sunk by aircraft in Norwegian waters.)

Thus he thought the fighting there was not truly representative of the real value of seapower against airpower.

Improvements in design undoubtedly will be needed, he said, and changes in deck armor, to give better protection against aerial bombing.

Asked whether he thought German planes would be able to drive the British fleet from the seas, Edison said:

"Frankly, I don't think the British battleships will be destroyed. I can't conceive that the Germans will be able to damage seriously the British fleet."

INADEQUATE DEFENCES

Meanwhile, two men high in government councils during the days of the first Great War, James W. Gerard and Bernard Baruch, pictured United States defences as inadequate.

Gerard, ambassador to Germany before the United States entered the last war, lunched with President Roosevelt and later told reporters that there would be "a great danger to the United States" should Germany win the present conflict. Encroachments in Latin America probably would follow such a victory, he indicated.

Declaring that Hitler has not "lost a trick" and that his "timing is almost supernatural," he ventured the opinion that Britain and France "know they have got to die in their tracks before they can let the Germans win."

Battleships Cannot Be Sunk By Planes

NEW YORK, May 8.—Rear Admiral Clark H. Woodward, commandant of the Third Naval District, declared flatly yesterday that "no battleship has yet been sunk by an airplane" and cited United States navy tests to support his assertion.

Without referring to German claims, subsequently denied by Great Britain, that Nazi planes sank a British battleship last week, he spoke of the plane versus warship controversy in connection with a description of the United States navy's present situation.

"In 1924," he said in an address, "the battleship Washington was taken to sea and bombs were rained upon her. She had to be sunk by the guns of the Texas. Then we took the old German Ostfriesland, and dropped 69 bombs at her. Only 16 hits were scored, and it took them all to sink her.

"Then we tried to sink the old Virginia, lying at anchor, a stationary target. It required 16 bombs to sink her. Then in the case of the old New Jersey, later, it took 20 2,000-pound bombs and 20 600-pounders dropped at her to get her down. And you must recall that those were ships that were and would be now obsolete, and modern ships are built with protection against bombing."

AMERY CITES OLDTIME CALL OF CROMWELL

LONDON, May 8.—Conservative L. S. Amery, criticizing the government's conduct of the war in the House of Commons last night, ended his speech with this call from England's past:

"Cromwell said to the Long Parliament when it was no longer fit to conduct the affairs of the nation: 'You have stayed too long here for any good you are doing. Depart, I say, let's have done with you. In the name of God, go'."

Only One Of Five Swedish Steamers Reaches Home Port

NEW YORK, May 8—Only one of five heavily-laden Swedish freighters which left New York together for Gothenburg 11 days before the German invasion of Norway and Denmark has reached its destination, British shipping operators said yesterday.

Furness, Withy and Company said the 3,145-ton Vingaren arrived at Gothenburg May 3 after feeling its way through mine-infested waters and escaping naval battles.

The Blankaholm, 2,845 tons, Ragnildsholm, 2,188 tons and Vasaholm, 4,712 tons, put into British ports for refuge, the company said. A fifth, the Troleholm, 7,047 tons, returned to New York April 25.

Broomhall

The threat that Rumania may be overrun and that the war in that case would be carried into the Balkans has curtailed trading in wheat and the volume of trade at Chicago is small again. Sterling declined again to around 3.38, which makes the dollar worth six shillings in the free market compared to four shillings, two pence normally, an increase of forty percent. News that Mr. Winston Churchill would receive more co-operaton in the future was the high point of the prime minister's speech and was received generally with more confidence in the future. The foreign demand for wheat was quiet with only a few loads taken again for Antwerp. Weather has improved recently in most sections of Europe but the season is reckoned to be four weeks in arrears and it is still very cold for this time of the year. The outlook for wheat in the Balkans is still pessimistic and it is unlikely that normal crops can possibly be produced this summer. The old crop reserves in the Balkans and in Hungary are small and are being closely held until the new crops are assured. The Scandinavian countries usually import ten million bushels of wheat annually besides flour, rye and barley, also corn which may not be forthcoming now that most of the land is overrun by a foreign army and most of the ports are blockaded.

STOCKYARD TRAFFIC

EDMONTON, May 8—Trucked, driven and shipped by rail to local livestock agencies May 7: Cattle 269, calves 3, hogs 278, sheep 32.

Shipments on May 6: One car of cattle to United States; one car of cattle to Eastern Canada; three cars of cattle, one-half deck car of calves and hogs and one double-deck car of calves and hogs to British Columbia.

VIGOROUS WAR PROSECUTION IS DEMANDED

Strong Criticism Directed Against Government By British Press

LONDON, May 8. — Britain's morning newspapers today laid down a barrage of criticism against Prime Minister Chamberlain's government coupled with demands for more vigorous prosecution of the war.

Sole exception among the newspaper critics was the Daily Telegraph which said that "on many of the main issues Mr. Chamberlain's defence of the government's decisions—for the speech must be called defensive—proved convincing."

ASSAULT IS ECHOED

But the general tone of the press echoed the assault on the administration in the House of Commons.

The Manchester Guardian said Mr. Chamberlain rebuked his critics for disputing about the forms of government but added: "It is not about forms of government that they dispute but about the means by which this people may win through the greatest danger that its history has known."

First morning newspaper comment came from the tabloid, The Mirror, which asked: "How much longer will the House of Commons be able to endure such statements as that made by the prime minister?" It added: "The patience of the nation is dwindling to the vanishing point."

The Daily Herald said 'Mr. Chamberlain's stock—low enough before yesterday's debate began—has now fallen right through the floor."

ALERTNESS NEEDED

The Times warned it was insufficient in wartime to make some sort of answer to any move by the enemy. "What is required is the intense alertness of a fencer whose riposte must be ready before the thrust is made. This has not been the temper of our conduct in the war in Norway. Assuredly we shall not win this war with less than the whole capacity for leadership possessed by all parties together."

"Thoroughly unconvincing," was the News Chronicle's estimate. "This government must go," it said.

The Evening News said: "Before midnight tomorrow the nation's representatives will have made their choice—between keeping the Chamberlain government despite its manifest insufficiencies and failures or setting up of a real national government."

The Sussex Daily News said "Our people will not be forced off with specious appeals for loyalty."

New Bus Services In City Districts To Replace Trams

A new diesel bus service will replace the street car line to Bonnie Doon as soon as re-decking of the Mill Creek bridge is completed and next year Rossdale flats will be served with a bus loop connecting with Jasper avenue by McDougall hill and 109 street, it was reported Tuesday.

The Bonnie Doon bus line was reported by city commissioners at a meeting of the South Edmonton Businessmen's association, Tuesday evening, and the New Rossdale service was recommended at a meeting of the street railway transportation committee in the Civic block, Tuesday.

Chairman of the transportation committee is Ald D. K. Knott and other members are Ald. A. Blair Paterson and Ald. M. B. McColl.

NEW PAVING

It was proposed to run the new bus loop from Jasper down McDougall hill, south on 100 street to 97 avenue, west along 97 avenue to 109 street, north to Jasper and east on Jasper to 100 street. This would entail additional paving on 97 avenue and on 100 street south of the bend of McDougall hill.

The new bus line would replace the present street car stub line on which the red-and-green cars run.

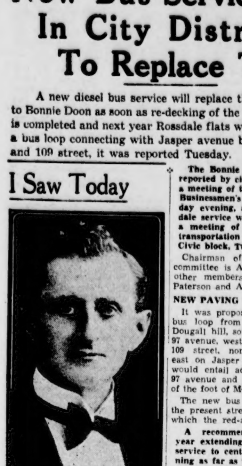

A recommendation for next year extending the trolley coach service to central Norwood, running as far as the car barns, also was adopted. This would entail additional paving.

The committee approved installing of a bus line serving Bonnie Doon and running from the terminus of the present Bonnie Doon street car line to 99 street and Whyte avenue, with a possible later extension to 104 street and Whyte avenue.

TO EXTEND LINE

The South Edmonton Businessmen's association asked that the present trackless trolley coach line be extended from its present south terminus at Whyte avenue and 99 street to Whyte and 104 street. Commissioners said this would take place when there were sufficient coaches to carry the traffic.

Following a report that the Calgary board of health had found arsenic on leafy vegetables, the Edmonton health department Wednesday was analyzing green celery for presence of arsenic, which is used by some vegetable growers to kill any vermin on the vegetable, Dr. G. M. Little, city health officer, said Wednesday. Leafy vegetables should be washed and scrubbed thoroughly, Dr. Little warned. "Anyone eating large quantities of the vegetable would likely suffer ill effects," he said.

THE QUESTION

Frances Chera of 11936 100 avenue has submitted the question: "Which are the best and most interesting writers of novels, men or women?" For the question, Miss Chera wins one dollar.

THE ANSWERS

MRS. STELLA GYSIN, housewife: I don't think that one is better than the other. They are just different.

* * *

RICHARD MacDONALD, radio announcer: The average man understands the point of view of both sexes in a clearer and better fashion than the average woman, and is in that way better qualified as a novelist.

* * *

MARION CONROY, librarian: On the face of it, there are more men writing interesting novels, but that is, I think, because women have not been writing for as long as men. The women who are writing are turning out good work.

* * *

BOB KEITH, radio announcer: I would say that the men are better authors, because they are out in the world more and are able to accumulate more ideas from the greater background at their command than women.

Veteran News Editor Passes

D. C. JENKINS, news editor of The Edmonton Bulletin for the past nine years and an outstanding newspaperman for many years on leading daily newspapers of Canada and the United States, died in hospital here Wednesday. "Jenks", as he was familiarly known among the press fraternity, is shown here in a recent photograph with his pet dog "Mitzi".

D. C. JENKINS, VETERAN NEWS EDITOR, DIES

Member Of Edmonton Bulletin Staff For Past 9 Years

Veteran of many years service on leading newspapers of Canada and the United States, and member of a well known American newspaper family, D. C. Jenkins, news editor of The Edmonton Bulletin for the past nine years, prior to which he had worked on newspapers in New York, San Francisco, Denver, Los Angeles, Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria, died in a local hospital today. He had been ailing since suffering a heart attack some weeks ago, and a series of similar attacks proved fatal.

WELL KNOWN TO CRAFT

Known to the newspaper fraternity as "Jenx", the late D. C. Jenkins had an amazingly wide acquaintance among working newspapermen of the continent, and especially along the Pacific coast where he had worked for many years. His father and grandfather before him were newspaper publishers, and he himself has two sons and a brother still actively engaged in this work. To his credit he had "beats" on some of the earlier day stories along the Pacific slope and his work during the San Francisco earthquake and fire was widely commented upon.

HUNDREDS OF FRIENDS

Open-minded and generous, and with a great sense of responsibility to the newspaper for which he happened to be working, his friends and acquaintances are numbered in the hundreds. When news of his death circulated around the city late today, The Bulletin office was deluged with telephone calls expressing the regret of the callers at his passing.

In addition to his wife, resident in Edmonton, he leaves two sons, one of whom was in Edmonton visitor a few days ago, and a brother and sister in Vancouver. The sons live in Bellingham, Washington and Moscow, Idaho.

Pending word from the relatives funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Resident of Whitecourt. Alta., Charles Edward Doyle died in Edmonton Wednesday. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Jeanne Gray and a son, Norman, all of Whitecourt. Funeral services will be held Friday at 3:15 p.m. at Foster and McGarvey's funeral chapel, Rev. William Simons officiating. Interment will be made in the Edmonton cemetery.

Printers and allied businesses have been invited to attend a meeting at the Commercial building to discuss participation in a celebration to observe the 500th anniversary of the invention of printing from movable type. The meeting will be held Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. In various eastern cities programs have been arranged for the observance of the anniversary.

Children In Spotlight At Musical Festival As Chorus Events Judged

School children occupied the centre of the spotlight at the second day's competitions at the sixth Edmonton and District music festival on Wednesday. Hundreds of students with their teachers thronged McDougall auditorium, where Arthur Benjamin adjudicated in the chorus events.

Gaining momentum, the festival expanded its sphere of activity and competitions were held in the Masonic Temple, where elocution events took place Wednesday with J. Watson Thomson of the extension department, University of Alberta, adjudicating.

Little children in Geisha costumes, prima ballerini leading action songs and ballet numbers, all combined to make a pretty picture at McDougall auditorium.

In the school chorus, Grade 1 event, first place went to Alex Taylor school, Room 3, conducted by Miss M. Megrath, with 84 marks. Second place was won by Norwood school, Room 3, conducted by Miss E. McKenzie, with 83. Donald Ross school, Room 2, conducted by Miss V. Fawcett, was next with 82, and St. Francis school, conducted by Sister M. Frederick, was fourth with 80.

CHARMING COSTUMES

Of the winners, Mr. Benjamin declared they were "charming costumes" and there was "a pretty tone in the voices." He said that some of the words were difficult to hear. The number was more a ballet than an action song. The youngsters adapted themselves to the unfamiliar stage with grand versatility. The "prima ballerina" he described as having "a good deal of personality." The whole showed careful rehearsal.

In Grade 2 school chorus event, first place went to King Edward school, room 2, conducted by Miss M. Campbell with 168 marks, 84 for each last piece. Second place went to Alex Taylor school, room 6, conducted by Miss M. Megrath. Third place was won by Oliver school room 18, conducted by Miss M. A. Tompkins and fourth place to Glenora school, room 2, conducted by Miss R. E. Burnell.

Mr. Benjamin found that in this class there were "good words and gradations of tone. There was good pitch except for a few voices." Of the winning group he said there was a "nice lilt and good, full tone."

In the Grade III school chorus and sight singing event, first place went to Oliver school, room 19, conducted by Miss M. Tompkins with 166 marks, 84 for the chorus and 82 for sight singing. McDougall school, room 7, conducted by Miss Janet Nicol was next with 163. McKay school, room 3, conducted by Miss Lena Williams scored 161 and Ritchie school, room 4, conducted by Miss S. Brudell, scored 152 marks.

In sight singing only, first place went to Donald Ross school, room 3, conducted by Miss E. Ryckman with 86 marks and second place to Oliver school, room 22, conducted by Mrs A. Murray.

ELOCUTION

Elocution competition results at the Masonic Temple, with warm praise being given by Mr. Thomson for the general high level of work, were:

Elocution, Grade 1: 1, Loretta Hebden, 87; 2, Eileen Greaney, 85; Ruth Dowell, 83; Edward Foster, 78. Consolance elocki, 80; Mary Keller, 71; Sam Videcavage, 75; Roland Dube, 70.

FIRST TENDERS ARE CALLED ON HIGHWAY WORK

Province Asks For Bids On Gravelling To Be Opened May 11

Seeking to get under way in the 1940 highways construction program, the provincial public works department Wednesday called for its first series of tenders of the current season, to be filed with the public works department by noon on May 11.

Determined to have the Jasper highway ready for the opening of the new Jasper-Banff scenic highway on July 1, the department is calling for tenders for gravelling 55 miles of the Jasper highway west of this city, comprising a section of 27 miles between Edson and Granada and an all-weather surfacing of the 28-mile stretch from Edson to Obed. Reconstruction will be necessary of most of the former railway grade west of Edson.

REVIEW SITUATION

Following this estimate, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, stated that the whole highways situation would be reviewed in the light of rain damage and prior to the season's construction program getting under way.

He also stated that the highways would be in as good or better condition than ever before for the summer tourist season and that there would be no reason for diversion of any tourist trade from this province on account of the spring work.

Maintenance work has commenced on the Edmonton-Calgary highway. In some spots the "blotter" treatment, the first course bituminous surfacing, requires patching.

Between Red Deer and Crossfield, it is planned to apply the second coat or second course of bituminous surfacing.

Citizen's Son Is Promoted To Wing Commander

Air staff officer at No. 3 training command in Montreal, Squadron Leader E. G. Fullerton, former resident of Edmonton, has been promoted in the rank of wing commander, it was announced in Montreal Tuesday.

Service veterans with the Royal Naval Air Service and the Royal Air Force in the first Great War, Wing Commander Fullerton was appointed flying instructor at Camp Borden in 1920, but took up commercial flying later. Last year and was the first pilot to fly the Mackenzie River district. He won the McKee trophy in 1934. Son of Mrs. E. C. Fullerton, 10224 116 street, he is well known in Edmonton, where he has visited relatives at various times. He has several other relatives in the city.

Building Projects Total $2,000,000: Plans Go Smoothly

With the building program for Edmonton and district contemplated or already in hand nearing the $2,000,000 mark, the most harmonious relations are reported between master builders and craftsmen in the building trades for the 1940 construction season, thus eliminating all danger of labor troubles.

It was stated by officials of the local building unions and the Master Builders' association that wage and working conditions agreements had been entered into between the carpenters, plumbers, and bricklayers unions, while negotiations are progressing between the builders and officials of the plasterers' union, and it is anticipated that an agreement will be reached shortly.

Latest agreement entered into was that with the common laborers' union. Under this agreement, confirmed by F. E. Harrison, Vancouver, western representative of the federal department of labor, building laborers will receive 50 cents an hour, and mortar mixers and reinforced steel workers will be paid 65 cents hourly.

NEW PROJECTS

Several new building projects have been announced in the last few days. It is now certain that a $50,000 neighborhood theatre will be erected in the Norwood district. Land for this building was purchased from the city several months ago, and plans have now been completed for the proposed building, and it is anticipated that work on the excavation will start shortly.

Another project is the erection of five one-story store buildings on the northeast corner of 100A street and 101A avenue. Cost of this building is estimated at $25,000.

Edmonton's water softener plant is another item which will swell Edmonton's building total for 1940. The structure to house this plant and a new reservoir will cost $85,500. The softener plant, it is estimated, will cost $86,000.

Gainers Ltd is now completing a $60,000 addition and extension and last year, and, in all probability, a further program involving expenditures estimated at $100,000 will be undertaken to replace buildings destroyed by the recent fire.

Work will start almost immediately on an addition to the Oliver Mental Institute, according to public works department officials. Plans of this structure are being rushed to completion, and work on excavation is scheduled to start as soon as weather conditions permit.

OTHER ENGAGEMENTS

Other provincial government building undertakings include an addition to the Provincial mental institute, $15,000, and the Red Deer training school, $12,000.

Tenders have been called for the erection of a new fire station in the West End, returnable on May 13. These structures will cost a total of $140,000.

It is expected tenders will shortly be called on the new $500,000 federal building. Preliminary plans of this building have been completed and work on the demolition of the old dwelling house on the site is finished.

Tenders have already been called on the airport extensions under the Empire Air Training plan, and it is anticipated that work on the runways, construction of hangars, recreational buildings and personnel quarters will be started before May 15.

In addition to the major building projects now proceeding in Edmonton it is estimated that private home building and structural alterations to existing buildings in progress reaches close to the $100,000 mark.

Building permit for the two-story, steel-reinforced concrete addition to C. Woodward, Limited, Edmonton store was issued by the city building department Wednesday. It was for $125,000. Work on the project is reported well underway and will make the store the tallest store in the city. It is reported the full cost of the project will be $250,000.

PERMITS ISSUED

Other building permits issued up until noon Wednesday included: a frame and stucco dwelling and garage at 10508 84 avenue, T. F. Connors; Plaza Court, $3,350; $3,600 alterations to a building at 11303 100 avenue, to turn it into a two 5a tilt dwelling, Max Bernstein, 10304 95 street; frame and stucco dwelling at 9854 78 avenue, $2,000, issued to J. Fraser, 9864 78 avenue; $1,800 brick, tile and stucco dwelling at 7742 104 street for George McLean; 9746 103 street, Edmonton and District Softball Association received a permit to construct bleachers and a fence around softball park at 7015 Kingsway at a cost of $1,000; N. Neale, Rosslyn Court, will build a frame dwelling at 8215 Universarty avenue at a cost of $1,000.

Last Rites For Mrs. L. Morrish Held Wednesday

Last rites for Mrs. Lillian Fraser Morrish, wife of Dr. Walter Morrish, prominent city doctor and former M.L.A., took place from the family residence Wednesday afternoon, with Rev. J. Gordon Brown officiating, assisted by Rev. H. McLeod.

Mrs. Morrish died Monday. Cremation was made in the Edmonton Mausoleum. Howard & McBride were in charge of the funeral service.

C. P. WILSON, CITY BUILDER, PASSES TODAY

Well-Known Construction Man Dies After Five-Month Illness

Resident of Edmonton since 1910, Cecil P. Wilson, 59, manager of the C. P. Wilson Co., elevator construction and machinery company, died at his home at 10167 115 street early Wednesday morning following an illness of five months.

Born in Tecumseh, Mich., May 13, 1880, Mr. Wilson came to Edmonton in 1910, and later went to Bluffton Lake, Alta., where he ranched for four years. Returning to the city, he entered the hay, grain and feed business, and was engaged in it until two years ago, when he organized the C. P. Wilson Co.

Prominent in Edmonton business circles, he was a member of the Cosmopolitan club.

He is survived by his wife, and seven children, Betty of Boston, Mass., Frances, Marion, Carol, Donald, Anthony, and Cecil Jr., of Edmonton; two brothers, Charles of Tecumseh, Mich., and Paul of Moscow, B.C.; and one sister, Mrs. Josephine Alvord of Detroit, Mich.

Funeral services will be held Friday morning from Connelly and McKinley's funeral chapel, and interment will be made in the Edmonton cemetery.

CHAPTER XIV

DID I win?" Sherry turned an anxious face to Wharton.

He was frowning. "I think—look, it's a photo finish—the light is flashing." He indicated the board. "We'll know in a minute."

He became calm, judicial. "You had the best horse, Sherry, but he carried too much lead in the pad. Madden's a great little rider, but he's too light. You ought to ride a heavier boy in the Derby—one nearer the weight for that race: 126 pounds."

"I'm thinking about this finish now," she said, "never mind the Derby."

"Well, it was awfully close. Think you got it. Oh, thunder!"

His words were lost in the wild shouts that rose from thousands who had bet on the favorite.

Sherry sat up stiffly; tried to keep her lips from trembling. The numbers were going up.

The winner: No. 1, Monitor.

Second: No. 3, Castaneta.

Third: No. 10, Pepper Boy.

"It took a picture to separate you from the winner," Wharton tried to console her. "Wasn't more than a nose win."

"Nose ahead good as a mile ahead," Sherry said.

Another shout from the crowd, this time a roar of admiration. A new track record had been set!

Wharton whistled, seized her arm. "Know what that means?" he asked. "The old record was beaten a full second. And since a horse travels 50 feet in a second, and since your colt was only about two inches behind the winner—why, your colt cracked the record, too! You've got a fine property, Sherry."

"Yes, indeed," said Sherry, her mouth going dry. "He won all of $50—running third."

"But think of the next time out!"

She started to say, "Maybe there'll be no next time," but she caught herself. Now the horses were coming back to the finish line.

Madden was sliding off Pepper Boy to weigh in. eSam was throwing a blanket over the colt. She'd take a look at him in the stable—later. Sam would cool him out.

"See you later, Paul," she said, managing a bright smile, "and thanks for the box seat."

He caught her arm, and drew her close as they stood there by the box railing. "You're a game one, Sherry," he said, his gray eyes looking deep into her blue ones, "and you know how I feel about you—"

"Stop it, stop it!" she said, smiling, and then looking away. "From now on, till the Derby's run, behold the hardboiled racing woman. If anything is sentimental as a rose petal floats across my pathway before that time, I shall crush it. Tell me after the Derby, Paul!"

She turned a gay face up to him, lifted an imaginary glass in her hand. "To Sherry Bond's dauntless Pepper Boy and his victory in the Kentucky Derby!"

She laughed and before Wharton could stop her she was out of his box and down the steps. He saw her meet Shep Grant after the latter weighed out. Saw the rider take her arm—walk with her toward the jockey room, Paul swore softly.

Sherry had gone straight to Grant, as though there had been no coldness between them a few minutes earlier. Her first words were, "A great ride, Shep—a beauty. Congratulations!"

He was embarrassed. "Er—er—thanks, Sherry."

She smiled and looked at him. "Sherry!" Taking her arm, he started in the direction of the jockey room. "Don't mind telling you, Pepper Boy is a good horse."

"You mean it, Shep?"

"I do. He would have beaten both Monitor and Castaneta, except he broke from the far outside, had to run farther than any horse in the race. If he'd drawn number one, or three, or four—"

"Then he's really good, Shep!"

"You bet he is. He was the best colt in the race," he assured her.

"Madden carried a lot of dead weight—to make up 120 pounds. If—"

"If you'd had a 120-pound boy riding," Grant interrupted, "you'd have won going away—even if you did start from the outside. Live weight is much easier for a horse to carry."

"You mean you could have won with him, Shep?" she asked.

He shrugged, was embarrassed again. "Post-mortems don't get us anywhere, you know."

"Paul Wharton said I ought to ride a heavier boy—"

"You in his box?"

"Yes," Sherry answered, giving him a side-long smile.

"I see!" he stiffened. Then, "Say, Sherry," he spoke impulsively. Can't a fellow ever see you? I've settled down, got my first colt—going to get another one soon—I'll have a breeding farm before—"

He stopped before Sherry's obvious amusement. "What's funny?"

"Shep, dear," she said softly, resting her hand lightly upon his arm, "You don't have to list your wares. I think you are swell—if you are a bit hot-headed and impulsive."

"Then, listen, Sherry! Can't a fellow ever see you?"

"Of course!" She slipped her hand away, lowered her lashes, "but he has to ask"

"Sure! Then, how about tonight?"

"Oh, no, not tonight!" she hastened to say. "I'm so busy tonight—"

"Paul Wharton?"

"Silly! I may not see Paul for ages—if ever."

"Then why not, Sherry?" He seized her shoulders, despite the passing crowds. She laughed up at him, then deftly evaded his grasp. "See you, Shep," she said, and called over her shoulder, "I'll see you—before you know it!"

As Sherry reached her own ballwick she found Sam leading the heavily - blanketed Pepper Boy around a cooling - out ring, while Elijah, the exercise boy, stood by enviously.

"Did he come out of the race unhurt, Sam?"

"One minute, please, Miss Sherry!" he answered, and called to the boy, "You 'Lijah! Take this here halter, lead him steady-like — and don't stop till I tells you."

He surrendered the halter to Elijah, then went straight up to his mistress. "Miss Sherry, he come out of that race sound as a new dollar—an' he didn't draw a hard breath. He's ready to go a mile an' a quarter, Derby distance, Miss Sherry. But—but—" he hesitated, as if afraid to speak what was on his mind.

"Go on, Sam. What did you start to say?"

"Miss Sherry, ain't none o' my business—but you ain't a-goin' to sell him, is you "

"Sell him? Certainly not! What gave you such a crazy notion?"

"Well, ma'am. I ain't no more'n got back here with him, right after the race when a dressed-up white man come up to me, right here."

"Yes, go on."

"He wuz dark-complected, and wuz dressed fit to kill."

"What did he want, Sam?"

"He want to know if Pepper Boy cut hisself or be bumped in the race or got hurt a-tall. An' I tell him no, siree! An' he want to know if we sure 'nough goin' to start him in the Derby, an' I tell him we sho' is!"

"What else did he say, Sam? Had you ever seen him before?"

"No, ma'am, Miss Sherry. An' he didn't say nothing else, but I sho' didn't like the oily way he say what he did say. He wuz gone befo' you could say Jack Rob'nson. An', Miss Sherry—" Sam was not sure about going on.

"Yes, Sam?"

"I 'spec' he wuz scoutin' for some rich man who wants his colors in the Derby. Them sorts is always tryin' to buy a good colt at the las' minute. But, Miss Sherry—" Sam shuffled uncomfortably, "you ain't going to sell the little fellow for nothin', is you?"

"Not for anything, Sam," she reassured him.

"Thank you, thank you, Miss Sherry!" he glowed with relief. "I jes' wants to handle a Derby winner befo' I dies."

"Well, you'll handle Pepper Boy, Sam—win or lose—for I'm not going to sell him, and he's surely running in the Derby. And Sam," she was positive now, "if anyone else asks questions, you send them straight to me."

"Yes, ma'am. Little fellow sho' oughta win today."

"We'll have better luck next time, Sam," she said as she turned toward her tack-room.

The thought struck her: she had to have money instantly, or there would be no next time. Tomorrow was Saturday; Sam and Elijah had to be paid. The feed bill was due —and a blacksmith's bill. She had to get a new blanket for Pepper Boy—a good horse blanket in her colors and worthy of being thrown over a Derby candidate, would cost at least $30. She owed for the furnished house she'd taken—got it with no down payment because she had a Derby colt, and the place was going vacant. And, yes, she had to have $300 in order to start Pepper Boy in the Derby.

She had less than a handful of dollars to her name.

Then she remembered Cousin Ted, and the generous offer of the morning. Too bad, but she'd have to tap Ted for the entire $700. Well, he school teacher had offered it. She'd—

Sherry stopped abruptly, in front of the partly-closed door of her tack-room. Someone was in there —two persons—and they were arguing in low but heated tones.

A girl's voice "... you said Madden would give Pepper Boy a masterpiece of a ride. Those were your words. You swore he'd win!"

"But, my dear," well-known English accents answered, "he did rive the colt a great ride! Beautiful! He was within two inches of winning—"

"Beautiful, was it? Those two inches cost me $700!"

Sherry gasped with shock. "Good Granny Moses!" she exclaimed to herself, "Uncle Willie touled Cousin Ted."

LAND IS DRYING RAPIDLY UNDER WEDNESDAY SUN

A light breeze and mild temperatures was causing land in Edmonton and district to dry rapidly Wednesday and although it is still wet the majority of farmers in the district are busy on the land. A heavy shower, lasting only a few minutes, fell in the city Tuesday afternoon.

Fair, with little change in temperature, is the forecast for Wednesday and Thursday.

The temperature in Edmonton was 47 above at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, while the barometric pressure was 27.87 increasing. Highest temperature Tuesday was 60 above and the low mark was 33 above.

Skies were clearing throughout the near north Wednesday morning. A light shower occured at Berwyn Tuesday, while a heavy shower was reported at Athabasca.

CONTRACTS FOR NINE TEACHERS ARE DISCUSSED

Recommendation that the contracts of nine city teachers be continued for one year was made at a meeting of the management and health committee of the Edmonton public school board at a meeting Tuesday night and will be submitted to the next meeting of the board. Recommendation was made on motion of Trustee A. E. Ottewell. Trustee Mrs. L. Ross presided at the meeting.

On motion of Trustee Ottewell, a recommendation was moved for submission to the finance committee that the retirement allowance scheme be investigated and reported on. It is anticipated there will be several retirements in the next few years, and Mr. Ottewell suggested it would be well to know exactly in what position the board will find itself.

Following inquiries regarding three city teachers who have not their first-class certificates, Supt. McKee reported that the teachers had been contacted, and had reported that they would have their first-class certificates within the time limit allowed them.

It was moved by Trustee Sidney Bowers that a letter of condolence be sent by the committee to Dr. Walter Morrish, former trustee, following the death of Mrs. Morrish Monday.

Applications for leave of absence to Edmonton Public Schools Camp from May 15 to 26 inclusively were received by the committee from I. Gorensky and Clarence D. Greer, lees, and granting of leaves will be recommended to the school board.

Maj. Merrett Is Dismissed After Reorganization

Accountant in the license branch of the Alberta Liquor Control Board, Major "Dick" Merrett, widely known for his activities in directing the Legionnaires concert party has been dismissed from his post due to reorganization of the branch.

Maj. Merrett on Tuesday received notice from J. A. King, chairman of the Liquor Control Board, of his dismissal resulting from interior reorganization. He was given one month's pay in lieu of notice.

Prior to joining the Liquor Control Board, Major Merrett was on the accounting staff of the city relief department and in August, 1937, was appointed accountant in the board's license branch.

Veteran of the World War, he has been prominent in stage circles, mainly as director of the Legionnaires. He is a member of the Garrison Entertainment Board.

Mr. King, who has left for eastern Canada on a two weeks visit, could not be reached for comment regarding the proposed reorganization.

ACCUSED FINDS HOUSE ROBBED AFTER HEARING

Life is really hard on William Marchuk. William was arrested by police Saturday on a charge of perjury and spent the weekend in city police cells. Returning to his home Tuesday after his case had been adjourned in court he found that thieves had visited his home during his absence and stolen a cart, two wheels, a shovel and a rake. He doesn't mind the police locking him up so much, he says, but he figures they ought to at least look after his stuff while they hold him.

Chancellor Won't See Convocation Due To Illness

Chancellor of the University of Alberta, Dr. A. C. Rutherford, first premier of the province and author of the original act establishing the university, will not be present at convocation ceremonies May 14 to grant degrees and awards to graduating students.

This will be the first time in his 14 years as chancellor that Dr. Rutherford will be absent. Confined to his home by illness, Dr. Rutherford has been one of the chief figures at colorful convocation ceremonies since he was appointed chancellor in 1926, succeeding the late Sir Justice Beck. This year Dr. Rutherford would have granted degrees to the largest graduating class in the history of the university, numbering more than 500 students.

The convocation address will be given by Col. J. H. Woods, of Calgary, prominent western newspaperman.

Last Rites For Pioneer Farmer Of Bremner Area

Resident of the Bremner district for 41 years, and one of the first farmers there, Mitchel Hanlan, 83, died at his farm home Saturday. Native of Toronto, Mr. Hanlan came west early in 1893 and homesteaded in the Bremner district. He was a charter member of the Ardrossan Masonic lodge.

Funeral services were held Tuesday from Andrews's funeral chapel and burial was made in the Clover Bar cemetery. Pallbearers were T. W. Hodgins, A. Allan, J. B. Bready, H. E. Tomlinson, Roy Warnock and G. W. Dowling, all members of the Orange order.

Films Shown

Members of the Beverly Horticultural Society attended a showing in the Slovak hall at Beverly of colored films of Edmonton gardens, Tuesday evening. The films were loaned to the society by the Edmonton Horticultural society.

CORPS PLANS FINANCE AID AT CITY MEET

Hopes To Raise $1,000 Annually For Benevolent, Education Use

Unanimous deption of a program of personal donations by which it is hoped to raise more than $1,000 annually for benevolent and educational purposes was the highlight of a well attended meeting of the Canadian Corps Association held in the Masonic Temple Tuesday evening.

Under the new plan, 100 members will pledge themselves to give 10 cents per week, another hundred will undertake to fill out three cards of $1 each yearly and another 100 will fill out two cards of $1 each yearly. Large portion of the money derived from these sources will be earmarked to provide scholarships for the sons and daughters of Corps members.

BASKETBALL SERIES

The meeting also heard brief addresses from Percy Page and William Sturrock in connection with the coming basketball series between the Grads and a team from the United States—a series which will be the last the Grads will play. It was decided that more than 150 of the Corps members will attend the game a week Saturday accompanied by their wives and families in order to give the Grads a rousing send-off farewell.

Lt.-Col. Tidswell, of M.D. 14 headquarters at Calgary, spoke briefly on the war aims and inspected the Corps' boys' band which numbers 60 members in uniform under the direction of Walter Hunter.

The meeting concluded with the showing of motion pictures of Norway's fjords, Sweden and England, loaned by the dominion department of the University of Alberta.

IMPROVEMENTS ON SOUTH SIDE ARE DISCUSSED

Street improvements on the South Side will be proceeded with as soon as possible, city commissioners told a meeting of the South Edmonton Businessmen's association, Tuesday evening at El Rancho.

J. A. Young, president, was chairman and the meeting was addressed by Mayor John W. Fry, Commissioners R. J. Gibb and John Hodgson.

Building of a sidewalk on 99 street from 78 avenue to 69 avenue will be carried out this summer, the meeting was told.

Consideration is being given, commissioners said, to other requested improvements, including gravelling of 106 street from 81 to 76 avenues and 96 street from Whyte to 76 avenues, and a walk on 96 street from 80 to 76 avenues.

Extension of the trolley bus line to its originally proposed terminus at Whyte avenue and 99 street will be carried out when there are sufficient trolley coaches to carry the traffic, commissioners said.

H. Holt Named New Warden For Lethbridge Jail

Appointment of H. Holt, deputy warden of the Fort Saskatchewan jail, to be warden of the Lethbridge jail, was announced Tuesday by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

Mr. Holt left here Tuesday night to take over his duties.

Appointment of Mr. Holt follows the resignation of Warden G. F. Blake, who has held the post for several years. His resignation had been requested in a letter forwarded by G. H. N. Monkman, deputy minister of public works, following scrutiny of evidence on the disturbance at the jail last July.

Mr. Holt has been at the Fort Saskatchewan jail for a long period His salary as deputy warden at Fort Saskatchewan was $2,100 a year. Mr. Blake's salary has been $225 a month or $2,700 a year.

Americans May "Travel Now And Pay Later" Under Credit Plan Of 66 U.S. Railroads

CHICAGO, May 8—Into the news comes an announcement that will bring cheer to the hearts of the legions of substantial Americans who want to travel but "can't spare the money just now." The announcement brings assurance to millions that the slogan, "1940 is Travel America Year," really means something after all. From now on you can literally travel and pay later.

A Travel Credit Plan, sponsored by 66 great railroads, makes possible the purchase of railway trips and tours in the same manner that you buy your car or radio—on convenient monthly payments.

The plan, which becomes effective May 20, is exceedingly simple The prospective user merely goes to the ticket office of the co-operating railway over whose lines he wishes to travel, or to a travel agent, and makes application for credit in the amount of the cost of the proposed trip or tour. If the routine credit inquiry indicates an ability to meet monthly payments, he is notified that his ticket is ready for him. The only contact in connection with the application is with the ticket or travel agent, just as though the ticket were being purchased for cash. The application is passed upon within twenty-four hours.

NO COLLATERAL

Use of the Travel Credit Plan requires no collateral—only the signature of the individual. The cost of the proposed trip, however, must total $50 or more to be eligible for purchase on credit. No down payment is required. There is a nominal service charge for the credit accommodation.

It is predicted that the largest use of the Travel Credit Plan will be for vacations and other recreational trips and tours. Although the service is intended to cover any form of railway travel. Credit is not necessarily confined to the cost of transportation alone, It may be used for Pullman accommodations, all-expense tours which usually include hotels and meals, specified side trips, and any service that is sold through the railroad ticket office.

A nation-wide survey of vacation and travelling practices of average railroad families that now have to frequently forego trips or vacations because of financial stringency right at the only period of the year in which they can get away to enjoy themselves. For such individuals or families the credit service is seen as a veritable boon.

Others will use the plan, it is expected, who might have sufficient cash to make a trip, but who would have to compromise on its extent or would be forced to economize too rigidly in order to meet normal expenses of travelling, apart from the actual railway fare. By taking advantage of the credit for the purchase of all or a part of the actual transportation, the trip could be made in proper fashion and with vastly increased enjoyment.

HYPOTHETICAL CASE

As an example of the potential money-saving advantages of the installment purchase plan, which permits a railway's spokesman cited the hypothetical case of an eastern or midwest couple who might plan a tour taking them as far as Seattle or Portland. They would be financially unable to make a long-dreamed-of Alaskan cruise from that point Now, instead of abandoning that dream, or at least being put to the expense of retracting the trip to Seattle and thence to Alaska at some improbable date in the future, they could use the travel credit plan and go the whole way at one time and at a great saving.

Economists look upon the plan as probably the most dramatic and far-reaching step ever taken by the roads in their efforts to make rail travel a commodity which can be enjoyed by the whole public. It is regarded as evidence of the progressive policy of the American railroads of today, alert to every opportunity for providing new and improved service.

Nearly all of the railroads in the United States are party to this installment purchase plan, which permits of travel anywhere.

CARDINAL POWERHOUSE MOWS DOWN DODGERS 18-2

SPARRING IN SPORT - -

BY JACK DEAKIN

"I offer you now without favor or fear
The horse I consider the 'horse of the year'
Insofar as our own western turf is concerned
We judge him not by the money he earned—
He's no fly-by-night ace, never flossy or showy
Just honest, consistent and tireless thats Joey."

SUCH were the words penned early this year by a turf writer of the San Francisco Chronicle when he selected Joey as the horse of the year on the Pacific Coast.

Monday night according to Denny Luxzell, who aids Lou Davies in calling the form chart, Joey returned to Winnipeg to again campaign on the tracks where he has scored some of his greatest triumphs. Reported as through two years ago, Joey came back to the races last season and won 11 events in 22 starts to move into undisputed hold of first place as the leading Canadian thoroughbred of the past 10 years.

Joey was one of a shipment of 11 head which arrived from Spokane to prepare for the 35 days of racing beginning at Whittier Park on June 1. Shannan Doah, Simonette and Si Green which performed at Winnipeg with such good success were also in the consignment, as was Sunny Monday, Yonnee, Memphis Maid, Doctor Larry, Russian Bank Hi Lester and Sporting Hi.

But getting back to Joey. The little black gelding came onto the racing scene in 1932. He won the futurity and three other events that season and in 1933 and 34 he continued his winning ways. He was the leading Canadian thoroughbred in 1935, winning nine races and $10,630. In 1936-37 Joey was still winning but was raced hard on southern tracks.

In the spring of 1938 Joey returned to Winnipeg but was not the Joey of old. A ruinous campaign had taken much out of the courageous little gelding and he was dropped two grades in one race. H. A. Burns and Ernie Hewsoner were Joey's new owners. Hewsoner gave Joey the chance the little gelding deserved and Joey was rewarded for several months. Joey was brought back to Winnipeg for the season of 1939. He started winning and from Winnipeg Joey went to Spokane to again capture laurels. Thus the finishing cry for Joey during races Winnipeg races appropriately this season and the racing fans by is pleased.

JASPER PARK GOLF COURSE IN TOP SHAPE

WINNIPEG, Man., May 8. — "Never before in the many long years I have been a greenskeeper, have I ever seen a golf course come through a winter so soundly true and even as did the course at Jasper this year," declared W. H. "Bill" Brinkworth, veteran greenskeeper at the famous mountain course as he passed through Winnipeg today.

"Every green and fairway is already in fine condition and we have been cutting the greens for nearly three weeks. With such a good start the course will be in excellent shape for the heavy play it is bound to receive this year," he stated.

"Brink" has just spent a few days at Minaki where he has been checking over the golf course. His son Gordon Brinkworth has been appointed greenskeeper there this summer. Gordon spent the last two years at Elk course, Alberta, and previous to that had many years tutelage under his father at Jasper. He reports considerable work to be done at Minaki but states the course will be in good shape for the opening near the end of June.

Mr. Brinkworth points out that the course at Jasper wintered in first-class shape despite the lack of snow during the winter. The country around Jasper was bare of snow most of the winter. However, Lake Annie remained covered with the result the grass was given every chance to come through. It has never been in better condition at this time of year in its history," concluded the golf expert.

YOUR CHANCE EASILY BEATS STAKES FIELD

BALTIMORE, Md., May 8.—In a spectacular run down the stretch here, Mrs. George D. Widener's Your Chance earned the right to go to Pimlico $50,000 added classic Saturday.

Your Chance, chestnut son of Chance Play-Excelsior, scored a smooth victory over Five Points (owned by Mrs. Widener) in the $2,500 added purse, stopping the watches in 2.01 flat and definitely stamped himself as a Preakness contender.

Your Chance, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, was never headed after he had taken command of the race from Five Points at the half-mile mark. Every colt in the race was ridden at a gallop.

Your Chance received his first start of the year Preakness Day and finished third to Challedon and Johnstown.

GOLF TIPS FOR THE DAY

Keep Your Eye on the Ball

Keep your eye on the ball—always. Never take your eye off the ball—not even for a fraction of a second. Keep your eye on the ball—not only when you are hitting it, but when you are addressing it, when you are swinging the club back, when you are swinging it through. If you keep your head down and your eye on the ball, you are almost certain to make a good shot.

Border League Plans Underway

REGINA, Sask., May 8.—Magee Sports Limited, Regina, has been awarded a baseball organizers meeting at Columbus, N.D., next Sunday to complete arrangements for a semi-team border league. It is expected that play will begin May 24.

Wilbur Emerson is the organizer for the league so far, and teams from North Dakota are expected to enter. The Regina Senators, Moose Jaw, Kenaston, Estevan, Bienfait, Prince Albert and Melfort, L. E. Mackenzie, Bengough, Assiniboia and Weyburn are being considered.

BECOMES A MANAGER

MacPhail made so many deals some of them had to be bad—the purchase of 20 Athletics from the Browns for $50,000 and an outfielder, for example—but the majority of his transactions panned out very well.

One in which not a few of the shareholders believed MacPhail was overcharged on little brought Ernie Lombardi from the Athletics in exchange for Infielders Lee Stine and Jimmy Brown, Outfielder Jimmy Conway and Southpaw Roy Henshaw.

But it turned out that MacPhail saw something in Lombardi, and Lombardi responded to 141 games in 1938 and was selected as the manager of the year after batting .277 in 146 games in 1939.

At 36, Ernie Lombardi has the appearance of a leading shortstop prospect. He has been kept in the dugout this spring by the brilliant work of Wee Bernie, whom the Red Sox had cast adrift as second baseman but well thought of as a shortstop.

Manager Cronin is Minnesota-born, and Vice-President Eddie Collins, who has come to command the respect of baseball men everywhere, is a native of Illinois.

LAND GOOD CATCHER

Jim Bivin seems to have discovered a catching gem in Hershel Hennig, who caught Carleton's no-hitter and who has made himself indispensable to Phelps and Gus Mancuso.

Pete Coscarart, only 24, and purchased from Nashville, is the key man in the success indeed the New York Nationals has boosted in years . . . He's backed up by such capable reserves as Dunmeier and Johnny Hutson.

MacPhail gave $25,000 each for two of his three former American League outfielders, Joe Vosmik and Roy Cullenbine. Dixie Walker came from Detroit at the waiver price. They have been Mayo Cheney Gumert, up from Nashville, Jimmy Ripple and Ernie Koy — the dugout.

Barry MacPhail always managed to dig outside up whenever Leo Durocher pressed the button. But their cordial friendship of 1939 and early 1940 has not a evidence that the Brooklyn Dodgers are for sale.

They are now going around the country and forming clubs of one another's former colleagues' names . . . They've come to remain . . . Indefinitely.

Larry MacPhail Proves No Easy Mark As Expected By Baseball Purveyors

By HARRY GRAYSON
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

NEW YORK, May 8.—When red-headed Leland Stanford MacPhail, ex-soldier, ex-lawyer and ex-football official, obtained his first major league opportunity in Cincinnati, following a whirl in Columbus, he was looked upon as something of an easy mark by purveyors of baseball ivory.

But Larry MacPhail, the old Michigan man, learned rapidly . . . surrounded himself with able people.

When he left the Rhineland, the nucleus of its championship club was on the field.

And in those years, starting from scratch, MacPhail appears to have built another championship array in Brooklyn.

MacPhail had to pay through, too, for the club was $700,000 in debt.

Then he did with night baseball, a plan said for land and sea admiration.

MacPhail's first not quite tossing over the outfit early 1939 was the purchase of $40,000 and an option of no consequence for First Baseman Dolf Camilli.

That quickly convinced the good people of Flatbush he intended to make every effort to give them a winner.

Yes, it's the Bambino, the old Sultan of Swat Babe Ruth himself, all duked out in a topper. Here he gets a big kissing-cry as he went beaming around at the wedding of his daughter, Josie, in New York. She recently wed Richard Wells Flaherty, of Melrose, Mass.

GLENORA TENNIS CLUB IS READY

Members of the Glenora Tennis Club met last night with some 75 members present and chairman of the meeting was Ian McDonald while vice-chairman was F. E. Brissette. The social committee is made up of Mrs. Goddard, Mrs Whitton and Miss Jean Boyle.

The tournament and inter-club committee will have Shorts Purcell, Roger Waters, Jack Thompson and Lorne Swingle.

Three courts are already open for action while the balance of the courts will be ready within the next two or three days.

Lavoy Planning Track and Field

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LAVOY, May 8.—The Lavoy home and school held a meeting to make plans and arrangements for the fourth Lavoy track and field meet. Three teams from the Lavoy high, intermediate and juniors rooms were chosen.

J. D. Williams and Miss Ruth Freeman and Art Genge were appointed leaders of the Lavoy team. Elimination ball games are to be played in advance. Cups and medals will be awarded to winning teams.

Redbirds Belt Out Seven Home Runs

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—The Cardinals revenged themselves on Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday with a record collection of seven home runs and 49 total bases out of 20 hits—proving by an 18-2 verdict that the National Baseball League leaders can be stopped.

The Redbirds kept up such a steady bombardment that manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers took cover in the middle of the game, letting Pewee Reese substitute at shortstop, and kept Hugh Casey on the mound for seven innings to save wear and tear on his other pitchers.

PADGETT'S PARADE

Don Padgett started the uprising in the second inning with a round tripper. Rookie Infielder Eddie Lake followed with one in the third and another in the eighth. Johnny Mize hit for the circuit also in the third and again in the eighth. Stu Martin joined in the shooting with one in the fourth and Joe Medwick hit one in the sixth.

Behind this powerful offensive lean Lonnie Warneke pitched shutout ball for seven innings.

The seven homers hit by the Cards tied a National League peak reached five times in the past. The Yankees set the major league high of eight in the American League last year.

The 49 total bases on seven homers, two triples, four doubles and seven singles bettered the modern National League mark of 47 set by New York Giants in 1931, but also was four short of the Yanks' major league level of last year.

Rookie Pearson Blanks Chi-Cubs

CHICAGO, May 8—Ike Pearson, 22-year-old right-hander who jumped from Mississippi State University to the majors last June, shut out Chicago Cubs with a four-hitter to give Philadelphia Phillies a 1-0 victory in the rubber game of their series. The triumph raised the Phillies into fourth place in the National Baseball League.

An error by catcher Al Todd produced the game's lone run.

Cinncy Reds Keep Heat On Dodgers

CINCINNATI, May 8. — Harry Danning tried hard to be a hero Tuesday, getting two home runs and a single to drive in four of the New York Giants' runs, but he had to be the goal of a 7-6 victory by Cincinnati Reds.

Trailing by one run in the eighth after Danning had homered with two on in the first half of the inning, the Reds tied the score when the big catcher dropped the ball on a double steal. Frank McCormick completed the damage with a single scoring Lonnie Frey.

Revamped Boston Bees Sting Bucs

PITTSBURGH, May 8.—With Eddie Miller furnishing the big punch, the revamped Boston Bees slammed 14 hits off four Pittsburgh hurlers to hand the Pirates their seventh straight defeat, 11-9 in a National League baseball game.

The flashy Boston shortstop knocked in four runs, three on a fifth inning homer.

Yanks Sink Down To Last Place

NEW YORK, May 8.—Ecan Joe DiMaggio couldn't break the jinx of lefthand pitching for New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers took over second place in the American Baseball League, clapping the fourth consecutive defeat on the world champions 4-2. The loss dropped the Yankees into a tie for last place.

DiMaggio, making an unheralded appearance, was installed in the cleanup spot in the champions' batting order, but failed to exercise any magic with his bat. He singled once with the bases empty.

Chi-White Sox Gifted Triumph

PHILADELPHIA, May 8—Five-hit pitching by Jack Knott and Pete Appleton, helped along by four Philadelphia errors, gave Chicago a 6-3 victory over the Athletics and two games out of their three-game American Baseball League series.

Four of the White Sox runs were unearned.

BASKETBALL CHAMPS POISED FOR FINAL ROUND

Coast Hoopsters Given Slight Edge

By JACK MITCHELL

MONTREAL, May 8.—Top basketball squads in the dominion, Vancouver Maple Leafs and Montreal Y.M.H.A. open tonight a best of five series for the Canadian crown and—other things taken as equal—Vancouver has an acknowledged edge both in size and experience.

The Maple Leafs have all the best of it in a game where height is at a premium. To a man, the western champions, average about 1½ inches taller with a 5 foot 11 inch standard, while they generally outweigh the Y.M.H.A. squad by about 15 pounds a man.

HAVE EXPERIENCE

Experience also is on the side of the Maple Leafs. Six of their eight players have been on dominion championship teams before—Joe Ross, acting manager; Jimmy Bardsley, Art Willoughby, Al Beston, Ralph Henderson and Rann Mathison. On the other hand, all the Montreal players are making their debuts in a dominion final.

Both Bardsley and Willoughby played with two championship teams previously — Bardsley with British Columbia in 1937 and Vancouver Westerns in 1938. Ross and Beston also were on the Westerns that year while Henderson and Mathison played with U.B.C. in 1938.

The eastern champions hope to offset the advantage in experience by outspeeding the Leafs. Y.M.H.A. have a fast, precision-balanced squad. Their plays are built on short, speedy passing in an attempt to shake one man loose from his check for a clean shot on basket.

Centremen in this attack are their only players who are more than six feet tall. They are Bill Kossy, 175-pound pivot man, and his alternate, Bernie Ziff.

FAST FORWARDS

Feeding the centremen are the lightning-fast forwards—Joe Richman, Ben Hockenstein, Joe Waxman, all under five feet eight inches, and Donald Bloomfield, who stands about five feet 10. Jack Landa is another alternate centre while the guards are Allan Kasnoff, Dickie Ditkofsky and Jake Weshler.

Each team has a problem but both believe it will not affect their play. Y.M.H.A. has been waiting for more than three weeks for the west to declare its champion. Coach Moe Abramowitz believes, however, that two exhibition games and daily workouts have removed any danger of the team going "stale" because of the layoff.

Facing the Maple Leafs is possible listlessness caused by the long trip east.

DIZZY GOING IN FOR RELIEF HURLING NOW

CHICAGO, May 8.—Dizzy Dean is going on relief.

The pitcher for whom Chicago Cubs of the National Baseball League paid $185,000 in cash has been relegated to the role of a reserve roundsman. But owner P. K. Wrigley is not yet ready to pass final judgment on the big right-hander who only six years ago won 30 games as St. Louis won the National League flag and the world series.

He's willing to give Ol' Diz at least one more chance before putting a Cub "period" to one of the most spectacular, up-and-down, news-making careers baseball ever knew.

Manager Gabby Hartnett announced that Ken Raffensberger, 22-year-old southpaw, would start today's game against Brooklyn. Raffensberger, taking over Dean's spot among the starting four, has allowed two runs and nine hits in 11 innings of relief work.

Wetaskiwin Tennis Club Organizes

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WETASKIWIN, May 8.—An enthusiastic meeting of tennis fans was held in the committee rooms of the Driard hotel on Thursday evening, when Ian Shaw was elected president of the club for the coming season. Secretary-treasurer is Miss Belle Bannerman.

The various committees elected are as follows: Grounds, Rodel Graham; games, Gordon Keel, and membership, Cecil Mellhargey. A good deal of discussion took place and plans for an active season were made. The season is to be opened with an American Tournament, the date for which is to be announced later. Harry Newby was present on behalf of the Wetaskiwin High school and it is hoped that the club will have about fifteen members from the high school.

Add funny sights: The Yanks in the same doghouse with the Giants . . . Pimlico jocks are sticking to Bimelech over Gallahadion in the Preakness Saturday. . . Beg pardon: Mrs. Lew Jenkins denies she bit her fighter-hubby with a skillet—just missed.

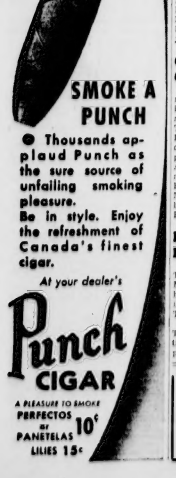

Civil Service Courts Are Ready

Courts of the Civil Service Tennis Club, just east of the legislative buildings, will open for play Wednesday afternoon, it was announced Tuesday evening by Dr. Harold Richard, president of the club. The clubs' four courts are all ready for play and are in excellent condition. All old members and prospective members will be made welcome. For additional information contact Mr. Charles Hunsley, club secretary, by phoning 21231, or Dr. Harold Richard.

Billy Marquart Loses Another

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—Jimmy Tygh of Philadelphia handed Bill Marquart, Winnipeg lightweight, his second defeat in a week, gaining the decision in a 10-round bout. Tygh weighed 136; Marquart 138½.

The Winnipeger was beaten last Tuesday in Toronto by Dave Castilloux, Canadian lightweight champion.

As Gallahadion Made His Stretch Bid To Win Derby

Gallahadion, rank outsider, upset the experts' dope when he romped home to win the 66th running of the famous Kentucky Derby ahead of Bimelech, highly-touted favorite, and Dit, picked by the experts for second choice. Gallahadion is shown crossing the finish line ahead of Bimelech, who finished second, and Dit, who romped in third. The Derby was run last Saturday before a large crowd.

Eaton Golf Competition To Get Under Way Shortly

IT is expected that a start will be made, next week-end, of foursome play in the Eaton Rose Bowl Competition. The Ted West and Bobbie Proctor team, the Mayfair pair, that were undefeated in fifteen matches, will be unable to carry on, so that the role of defenders swings to the first challengers now on file with the secretary of this interesting competition.

In this case, the mantle falls on the Highlanda team of Henry and Burns Martell, who won the Eaton title in 1937 and 1938.

The Eaton Governors will be meeting this week and an official announcement will be made as to the first game of the season.

TITLE WINNERS

It is interesting to look back and make a few comparisons about the various title winners. The first year of the Eaton Event was 1935, when a Round-Robin, medal competition was played to decide the first defenders of the Rose Bowl. . . Bert Greer and Billy Hudson of Earl Grey Club, Calgary, gained this honor but the season's honors went to Stew Vickers and Jack Cuthbert of the South City Country Club with seven wins. The following year the title went to an Edmonton team; Bobbie Proctor and Whit Mathews of the Mayfair Club with 6 wins.

In 1937, the Foursome title was won by Henry and Burns Martell of Highlands Club with a record of 12 wins, with Doug Kilburn and Jim Mountifield of the Country Club, being close seconds with 11 wins. This pair were also runners up to Proctor-Matthews team in the previous year. The Martell team repeated in 1938 with seven wins, the runners-up being Bob Manahan and Tommy Vickers of the Municipal Club. When the West-Proctor pair set up a record of 15 wins to take the title last year, they set a mark that will take some beating.

NORTHERN SUPREMACY

Since Calgary's initial win in the first year of the Eaton Competition, despite the efforts of many leading golfers from the Foothills City, they have been unable to wrest the honors from the Northern City golfers. The nearest to a win for Calgary was that thrilling game at the Country Club when Doug Kilburn and Jam Mountifield turned back the strong challenge of Stew Vickers and Duane Barr of Calgary's Country Club. The game went to Edmonton pair when Jim Mountifield collected a birdie three on the 20th hole.

Calgary's hopes this year of getting the Rose Bowl are greatly improved as Stan Leonard, last year's winner of the Provincial Open is now assistant to Jack Cuthbert at the Country Club there and should Stan make the trip in the company of one of the leading amateurs of the Southern City, there is no doubt, but that, a close game would be the outcome of such a meeting.

COMMERCIAL TEN

C.N.R. trundlers were bowling at their best last night at the Recreation bowling academy when they defeated the Independents in three straight games in a three-of-five series to win the Commercial Ten Pin League title.

Rollie Hurman led the way with a high single of 214 and a high three-game total of 600.

Commercial ten pinners will have a banquet on Friday evening, May 10, at 8:00 p.m., at the Royal George hotel.

Girl Athletes Start Practices Track and Field

A number of girls interested in track and field have started practices and any others desirous of joining in with them will be welcome at the South Side athletic grounds on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Another gathering is held Monday and Thursday evenings at Clarke stadium particularly for the convenience of north side residents. The athletes are getting ready for the May 24 and July 1 meets in the city, as well as those to be held later on.

King Receives Prime Minister

LONDON, May 8—Prime Minister Chamberlain was received by the King at Buckingham Palace last night after the important war debate in the House of Commons.

Johnny Chick Starry New Matman For Friday Bouts

AFTER several days of busy telegraphic activity with Pacific Coast promoters, Mike Cutcher has been somewhat fortunate in securing a well-known American wrestler by the name of Johnny Chick, of Tacoma, Washington, to wrestle in the feature bout of Friday's wrestling card at the Memorial Hall.

Pitted against him in the main event over a one-hour time limit will be Bill Masson of San Francisco. In the semi-windup, rough and tough "Bad Boy" Bishop will tangle with the Milwaukee boy, Oscar Shaun.

The preliminary and opener has yet to be lined up, and the complete card will be announced at a later date. The wrestling commission has decided to change two bouts to the rounds affair. The prelim will be five six-minute rounds for one fall, and the semi will be six eight-minute rounds for two of three falls.

The commission, in doing this, think that the fans will see more wrestling, science and speed.

William Murdock of London made the world's first wrought pipes by screwing musket barrels together. His impromptu pipes were used for a gas-lighting system for the city.

Crossfield Tennis Officials Named

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CROSSFIELD, May 8.—Members of the Crossfield Tennis Club met in the bank rooms on Thursday evening, May 2, for the purpose of organizing for the coming season.

Last season was very successful, and a large increase in membership is expected this year. Some new equipment is being purchased, and the new season is to be launched with a public tournament, open to all local players, on May 19. Work on the courts was to commence immediately, but the heavy rain of Thursday night and Friday will cause some further delay.

Officers elected for 1940 were: Honorary president, F. Massey; president, A. Stevens; vice-president, E. Kinsey; secretary-treasurer, G. J. Dawson; C. H. McMillan heads the grounds committee.

Albinism occurs throughout most of the animal kingdom.

ACCURACY is the Watchword at C·C·M·

ACCURACY
IN THE C.C.M. COASTER BRAKE
A new brake by C.C.M., faster in forward clutch-action, more powerful in its smooth, quick stop than any of its predecessors. Built of super-strong, hardened steels to meet the needs of today's cyclists.

ACCURACY
IN THE C.C.M. FRONT HUB
Built of hardened steel with stout axle and accurately machined and hardened ball-races to give years of smooth and easy running.

ACCURACY
IN THE C.C.M. TRIPLEX HANGER
The 15 parts of this most important section of a C.C.M. bicycle are machined, hardened and finished with extreme accuracy so that you get the most out of your pedalling action.

FROM the time the great steel bars are fed into the precision automatic machines until the bicycle is finally assembled and tested, "Accuracy is the watchword at C.C.M."

The evidence of this accuracy is apparent at every turn to the visitor at the C.C.M. plant. He will see all the accurate dies in the presses making the parts of C.C.M. bicycles so they will fit perfectly and have long life.

He will see the shaping tools of the amazing precision automatic machines, that make the brake hubs and front hubs, being replaced as soon as they show signs of wear so that C.C.M. Bicycles will pedal easily.

He will see the precise gear hobbing machines, that cut the main sprockets and back wheel sprockets, continually being checked so that C.C.M. bicycles will be free-running.

He will even see the seamless tubular steel frames of C.C.M. Bicycles being trued-up by accurate gauges on a special trueing-table, so that all the fast-moving parts will operate together without friction.

And he will be intrigued by the ingenious machine which tells a nimble-fingered operator when every last spoke in the wheel is true and at the proper tension so that the wheels of C.C.M. Bicycles will have great strength and run straight and true.

He will see in a multitude of other ways throughout the model plant at Weston that "Accuracy is indeed the watchword at C.C.M."

And the result of all this accuracy is a true-running, smooth-riding, easy-pedalling Bicycle that will give you many long years of delightful, trouble-free cycling.

Go to your nearest C.C.M. dealer today and see the various C.C.M. models on display.

TENDERS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Additional Hangar Accommodation, Airport," will be received up to 12 o'clock noon (D.S.T.) Monday, May 13th. Time: Thursday, May 23, 1940, for additional hangar accommodation at Municipal Airport, Leduc, Alta., which work includes clearing and preparation of land surface runways and taxi strips, and application of primed material, seal and numbers against gate.

Plans, specifications, labour conditions and form of contract to be entered into may be seen and tender forms obtained on application to the General Purchasing Agent, Department of Transport, Ottawa, Ontario, or the District Airway Engineer, Post Office Building, Lethbridge, Alta. Further information, if required, regarding interpretation of plans and specifications may be obtained from the District Airway Engineer at Lethbridge or the Airway Engineer, Hunter Building, Ottawa.

Plans, specifications, labour conditions, form of contract and tender form may be obtained from any of the above offices upon receipt of an accepted cheque, made payable to the Receiver General for Canada, in the sum of $25.00. This cheque will be returned upon the return of plans and specifications in good condition.

Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque on a chartered Canadian Bank equal to ten per cent of the tender sum, payable to or to the order of the Receiver General of Canada. This cheque will be forfeited in the event of the tenderer refusing to enter into a contract on the basis of his tender, if called upon to do so, or failing to satisfactorily complete such a contract. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Any tender not accompanied by a security deposit as described will not be considered.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

GEO. W. YATES,
Secretary.
Department of Transport,
Ottawa, May 3, 1940.

RUMORS CLAIM SPEAKERS MAY RETAIN POSTS

Possibility Advanced That MacKinnon May Become Postmaster General

OTTAWA, May 8.—Rumors were current last night that Hon. Pierre F. Casgrain, speaker of the House of Commons, and Hon. W. E. Foster, speaker of the Senate, would retain their posts when the first session of the new parliament opens May 16.

Mr. Casgrain has been mentioned prominently for the long vacant portfolio of secretary of state. But there are other candidates, notably Thomas Vien, member for Montreal-Outremont. There is also the necessity of finding a department for Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, of Edmonton, a member of the cabinet without portfolio who has been definitely promised a full-time ministry.

The possibility has also been advanced that if the speakership remains open, the postmaster-general, Hon. C. G. Power, may be transferred to the state portfolio and a place thus made for Mr. MacKinnon.

ROYAL REPORT EXPECTED ON COMING FRIDAY

OTTAWA, May 8.—The prime minister's office announced late yesterday that the royal commission on Dominion-provincial relations expects to submit its report to the government Friday.

Immediately the report is received the government proposed to forward copies to provincial governments, stating it aims if where necessary to ensure the earliest sitting in the hands of each provincial premier by next Monday morning, the announcement said.

The report will be made available to the press for release in afternoon papers of May 13 and copies of the report will be delivered in the Senate and House of Commons on Monday afternoon, darkening day of the Senate and House of Commons.

In order that the public may be informed better as to the nature of the report, shortly after a two-year investigation, the announcement said arrangements had been made for an explanation broadcast on the evening of May 13.

Ready For War

ANKARA, May 8.—A bill authorizing the government to declare a state of war in case of a war crisis or a plot against the state was voted Monday on first reading by the Turkish parliament.

BETTY MUTER WINNER FOR PIANO EVENT

Concerto Playing Wins Praise At Music Festival Tuesday Night

Climaxing the first day of the sixth annual Edmonton and district music festival at McDougall auditorium Tuesday evening, Betty Muter, youthful city musician captured the major competition to date — the open piano concerto class. She scored 87 out of 100 marks and won warm praise from the adjudicator, Arthur Benjamin.

Miss Muter won the event in a field of four, the others, with their marks, being Patricia Brown, 86; Catherine Kinnaird, 85, and Elsie Lange, 70.

McDougall auditorium was well filled for the evening competitions which included both vocal and instrumental events.

MAYOR ATTENDS

Included in the audience was Mayor John W. and Mrs. Fry; Howard Stubbings, chairman, of the festival committee; Frederick Bafford, one of the founders of the music festival movement here and others prominent in musical circles.

The piano concerto class was the outstanding event of the day and to it, Mr. Benjamin, who himself will play under the baton of John Barbirolli, conductor of the world-famous New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, at Vancouver on May 18, brought his most exacting adjudications. He set a high standard in this event and once or twice mentioned the difficulties of concerto-playing with an orchestra and the high standards required.

"What I have heard of your piano work here convinces me that you ought to be very proud of it," said Mr. Benjamin in making some general observations on the concerto class.

Of Miss Muter's playing, he said it had shape and rhythmic authority and urge. There were varying tone colors in it and in some passages it was beautifully subtle. There was an admirable shaping of tone and altogether the performance was splendid.

The junior vocal ensemble, under 18 years, was won by the First Baptist church junior girls, conducted by Mrs. F. Barber-Smith with 167 marks, 83 and 84 for the two test pieces, Edith Sweeptone's The Call and H. A. Chambers' The Lass With the Delicate Air.

Second place went to Central United church "B" choir, conducted by Sybil L. Holtsman with 164. Lisgarthney school, conducted by Mrs. Barber-Smith, came third with 160 and Central United "A" choir, conducted by Mrs. Holtsman, scored 156 marks.

TWO-PIANO DUET

In the two piano duet class, under 16 years, first place went to Kenneth Gee and Eileen Shaske with 86 marks, the test piece being Contra Dance No. 7 in C by Beethoven. Second place went to Gladys Pavlovick and Ruth Steele, Camrose, with 75.

A special class, ladies chorus, featured the Royal Alexandra Hospital Nurses' Choral Club, conducted by G. A. Kevan. The sole entry in the event, this chorus won 171 marks, 85 and 86 for the two test pieces. In their uniforms the nurses made an impressive picture.

Mr. Benjamin gave unstinted praise to the nurses for their splendid contribution and passed on a few hints for even further improvement.

The senior piano event for competitors under 21 years, was won by Nelda Faulkner with 169 marks, 85 and 84, respectively, for the two test pieces, Scarlatti's Sonata in B. Minor and Ravel's Menuet Sur Le Tombeau de Couperin. Hazel Bogis of Dalehead was second with 159 marks.

Of Miss Faulkner's playing, Mr. Benjamin declared she played with good style. He was pleased with her accuracy. He was "more than delighted with the singing tone produced in the musette section of the Ravel number. She built up a fine climax, subtle and with the real minuet lilt.

LARGEST CLASS

Largest class of the opening day was the girls' solo, under 16 years, in the afternoon. In this no fewer than 16 competitors took part. The test piece was Mendelssohn's Lord, At All Times I Will Bless Thee. From the long list of competitors, Joan Bunkall emerged victorious with 88 marks. Hilda McKeever and Bunny Nosford were tied for second place with 85.

Other competitors, with their markings were: Esther Hardin, 77; Florence Brady, 79; Edythe Last, 77; Ruth Cullerne, 84; Cecile Vallee Bonnyville, 82; Elva Aimas, 80; Delia Hilton, 81; Shirley MacDonald, 84; Angele Brault, 83; Norma MacNeil, 82; Rosalie Ann Hope McHaffie, 80; Betty Powers, 79; Betty Youmans, 81.

Four competitors contested the intermediate piano class, under 16 years, the test pieces being Schumann's Little Prelude and Fugue, Opus 68, No. 40, and D de Severac's Grandeur.

Donna Frazer scored first place in this event with 83 and 87 marks, for the two test pieces, second place went to Aphlice Carlson, Camrose, with 161; third place to Gladys Novick, Camrose with 157 and fourth place to Naomi Wershof with 154.

Miss Frazer won warm praise from Arthur Benjamin, the adjudicator. She has been making steady progress since she first appeared in the festivals a few years ago and on each occasion she has won warm praise.

FINE FEELING

Of her playing, Mr. Benjamin remarked that there was a commendable "continuity and shape about it," while on the whole it was good with a fine feeling permeating it at all times. He described the second number as being "quite a moving performance." He said she had a "feeling for gradation of phrasing" and that on the whole it was "a sensible performance."

The primary violin solo class, under 12 years, brought out two competitors, Harold Brulhart and Jack Fowler. The former won with 171 marks, scoring 85 and 86 respectively for the two test pieces, Cerelli's Sarabande from Sonata No. 11 and Seenger's Little Chatterbox. The latter scored 170 marks, with 85 for each test piece.

Mr. Benjamin bestowed much praise on these two young performers. "If they aren't two promising young fiddlers, I'll eat my hat," he declared. "I've rarely seen such sure bowing." He lauded the boys' teachers. Of the winner, he said he had "excellent intonation" and his "bowing was always good. Also he had a good sense of rhythm" and was "most promising". Of the second place contestant, Mr. Benjamin declared he had a most appealing touch" and also was a most promising player.

There were four contestants in the junior violin solo, under 16 years. This event was won by Jean Gauld with 168 marks, being 84 for each of the test pieces. Second place went to John Peter Millward with 162, Doreen B. Theobald scored 160 and Virginia Webb 155 marks.

The soprano and contralto duet was won by Helen and Hazel Trimble, who scored 82 marks for the test piece Irene and Juliette Landreville, St. Paul, were second with 81; Marguerite Macdonald and Ruth Newson scored 80 and Ivy M. Carter and Isobel M. Stanley scored 79.

Of the winners, Mr. Benjamin declared they had a "very artistic blend and balance."

LADIES' TRIO

The Ladies' Trio class was won by the First Baptist church trio consisting of Evelyn Welmore, Helen and Hazel Trimble with 86 marks.

Claire, Irene and Juliette Landreville, St. Paul, were second with 85 and third place went to Irene, Therese and Lorraine Gadbois, St. Paul, with 82. The winners, singing an arrangement of My Heart Ever Faithful, by Bach, sang with "good intonation" and "good blend," according to Mr. Benjamin. They took the number too fast, however, he said. He had kind words for the two trios from St. Paul.

The primary piano class, under 11 years, was won by Leyla Margolius with 167 marks being 84 and 83 for each test piece, Duszeki Dondo La Matinee and Seebock's The Squirrel.

Others with their marks were: Dorothy Livingstone 166; Lois Archer 163; Rosemary Stockman 160; Therese Turgeon 162 and Doreen Duncan 156.

In the brass orchestral instruments class in which competitors selected a number of their own choice, Donald Tupper won with 82 marks.

WEDNESDAY

Evening—Open soprano, 'teen age girls' chorus, open tenor and bass; ladies' chorus (small); church choir (small); church choirs (intermediate).

Crown Ends Case Against Companies In Combines Suit

VANCOUVER, May 8. — The Crown closed its case yesterday after a five-day assize court trial of four individuals and eight companies, charged with infractions of the Combines Investigation act in connection with marketing of British Columbia fruit, and immediately Alfred Bull, K.C., defence counsel, applied to Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson for a dismissal.

Mr. Bull contended the Crown had failed to prove a combine.

Decision was reserved by His Lordship who asked Mr. Bull to be prepared to announce today if the trial resumes, whether he is calling defence evidence.

Loyalty To Canada Affirmed By Danes At South Meeting

CALGARY, May 8. — Denmark may be technically a part of the German Reich today, but Calgarians of Danish descent will have no part of Nazism.

Last night 300 of them met to reaffirm their loyalty to Canada, the British Empire and the Allied cause. An unanimous resolution to that effect was sent by telegram to Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Through The Mill

It seems that somewhere in the vicinity of Edmonton two brothers do dwell and beside them there lives a gal not named Nell, with the result that life for all is just — well not exactly lovely. The two brothers think they own some land and the gal thinks she owns some pigs.

* * *

Now it seems that these pigs from their pasture d'd stray and wandered to where the two brothers made hay. What happened exactly is difficult to say, but with the two brothers it was not okay.

* * *

The brothers they up and they ran at the sows and their screaming brings the gal from her house. She takes in the picture with one steely glance then flies into action like a cavalryman's lance.

Screams, tears and threats are all in her employ and she hurls them at once at the nearest dear boy. Now what happens next is a matter of question: that they lied there and there is my humble suggestion.

* * *

But the gal got some scratches upon her smooth throat while the nearest boy figured he had been made the goat. For the gal with her wounds to the police station flew, but don't stop now for the story's not through.

The gal told her story as here is related, while the boy told another with anger unabated. He didn't slug the dame for an obvious reason, he never slugged women in the spring season.

The cadi looked at the gal and he looked at the guy and then he decided to cut up the pie.

You look guilty to me he said to the lug, and from what I have heard you act like a thug, an order that you to this court should pay the sum of five bucks without any delay.

A couple of bims made passes at each other after they got in an argument appeared before the cadi who, after careful deliberation decided that one of them was guilty to the tune of three bucks and costs.

BANFF-JASPER HIGHWAY FETE IS DISCUSSED

Program for opening ceremonies of the Jasper-Banff highway which will be formally opened on Tuesday, July 1, was discussed Wednesday noon at a meeting in the Royal George hotel attended by representatives from Calgary, Banff, Jasper and Edmonton.

Head of the Edmonton committee is R. A. Godson, president of the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association. Other members are E. T. Love, J. C. Lee, H. Harvard, John Flue, J. A. McNeil and D. E. C. Campbell, director of publicity for the provincial government.

Calgary committee comprises Reg Wade-McGeer, J. H. Macdowell, Col. W. C. Armstrong, James Cleave, Wilfred Bennett and E. J. Doran.

Banff delegation includes Major P. A. Jennings, superintendent of Banff national park; R. M. Deyell, manager of Banff Springs hotel, Major C. A. Wood, superintendent of Jasper national park, is a member of the Jasper delegation.

When plans and likely outlays of expenditures are completed, there will be sent to the federal committee at Ottawa of which R. J. C. Stead, director of publicity for the Dominion parks branch, is a member.

Economic theory which it is claimed will free Canada from public debt and unemployment is the theory of a booklet written by Wesley H. Collier, Edmonton. The booklet, the author explains, has been written following eight years of research work, and has been printed for submission to members of the Edmonton provincial members of the Alberta legislature and of the federal parliament.

Regular monthly business meeting of the Federation of Community Leagues will be held in the council chamber, Civic Block, Thursday at 8 p.m. Each league is urged to have its quota of representatives on hand.

PROPERTY DEBT PAYMENT ASKED BY STATESMAN

A number of years ago Rt. Hon. Leopold C. S. Amery, former First Lord of The Admiralty and British Secretary for the Dominions, sold a parcel of land in the Mundare district for $4,960 to Nicholas and John Fedoriuk.

Terms of the sale were $400 cash and the balance in yearly payments, the morigage on the property carrying interest at seven per cent.

Recently in supreme court here action was started by the law firm of Woods, Field, Craig and Hyndman on behalf of the British statesman, seeking payment of $3,445 due under the agreement for sale, or in default of payment an order for foreclosure on the land.

Heavy Artillery Action Reported In Blies Sector

By RALPH HEINZEN

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, May 8.—Heavy artillery action was reported today in the Blies river sector and west of the Vosges mountains on the western front. Artillery was active all along the front.

French aircraft repulsed several German patrols in the Nied river sector.

French planes made several night flights over Germany and German planes flew over eastern France.

This morning's war office communique, the 430th, said that artillery on both sides had been active throughout the night all along the front.

236 Cases Of Supplies Sent By Red Cross

Alberta divisional headquarters of the Canadian Red Cross Society has shipped for transfer to Great Britain 236 cases of war and relief supplies since February 1. The last shipment of 32 cases went out on May 3.

This latest shipment included 144 dressing gowns, 360 surgical towels, 1,164 sling bandages, 444 knitted helmets, 288 pyjamas, 90 surgeons' gowns, 192 bed sheets, 144 Hampton bed pads, 1,200 pillow cases, 846 bed gowns, 1,344 handkerchiefs, 444 wash cloths, 1,224 hot water bottle covers, 1,008 personal property bags, 408 bed pan covers, 132 bed jackets, 972 socks for navy, 216 scarves for army, 234 pneumonia jackets, 180 mattress bed pads, 492 T bandages—a total of 11,849 articles.

In addition there were shipped 323 articles of clothing for Finnish relief.

France Stops Ore Sales To Japan

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, May 8.—A most reliable informant asserted Tuesday that France has ended to sell Japan Caledonian nickel and Indo-Chinese iron ore as part of general measures to conserve indispensable war materials.

New Caledonia and Indo-China are handy sources of supply of raw materials for Japan. New Caledonia, one of many mineral resources, lies east of Australia.

Holland Omits Weather Report From Broadcast

NEW YORK, May 8.—The Netherlands radio station PCJ adopted the method of stations in belligerent countries last month of omitting its customary weather report from an English language broadcast picked up here at 6:45 p.m. E.S.T.

In signing off, the announcer said that "due to conditions which are known in Europe" he could not give any weather report and would say only that it is spring in Holland, with the tulip fields blooming and making a most spectacular sight for television."

Oats Requisitioned

STOCKHOLM, May 8.—All supplies of oats in Sweden have been requisitioned by the government. At the same time it was announced the government would spend 117,400,000 kronor (about $5,852,000) for construction of light warships.

Cabinet Meeting

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 8.—A cabinet meeting was called suddenly today. It is believed that ministers will consider Belgium's position in the international situation.

How to Eat to Beat the Heat

By ALICE H. SMITH
Nutritionist, Cleveland Health Council

Alice H. Smith

You can dig a lot of health out of that back yard; vitality and vitamins.

Nothing gives greater returns than those hours in your garden. But to get the most and best returns it is important to choose the right plants that provide the most food value.

Tomatoes are especially rich in vitamin C as well as in vitamin A, and minerals. The green tomatoes have their valuable vitamin content. Tomatoes, incidentally, are among the few vegetables which can be safely canned without use of a pressure cooker.

Next come carrots, cooked or uncooked. They are high in food value and important because their delicious flavor stimulates the appetite. Leaf lettuce requires much less work than head lettuce and has more food value. The dark green leaves are high in iron content and Vitamin A.

Parsley is another important vegetable. Save a few inches for a parsley bed in the garden. Parsley, however, should be eaten, not merely used as a garnish for something good, often less important. Parsley is high in vitamin A and C and minerals, especially iron.

If there is sufficient space for corn in your garden choose a yellow variety since the yellow corn contains vitamin A.

Beets are worth any space you give them. They should be planted fairly thick and then thinned. The younger tops will provide a choice vegetable. A few radishes for those who do not like spinach. In fact, all the green, leafy vegetables are good.

Peas and beans likewise are excellent. If your family happens to like white turnips be sure you serve turnip tops with the turnips. You'll overlook good food if you don't.

Potatoes are important, if you have the space. They are rich in good energy-producing food but potatoes are high in mineral content and contain an appreciable amount of vitamin C.

Finally, there's the dandelion. Whole lots are filled with them at this time of the year. They are delicious cooked or served as a salad or in a salad bowl with other greens and a dash of French dressing.
